Walkout By Street Car Men

Started in Steel Capital, Already in Power Strike Grip: Others Threatened

PITTSBURGH, Sept. 26—(AP) — The Allegheny County Common Pleas court today dissolved its stern anti-strike injunction—crux of the city's three-day-old power strike—and dropped contempt charges against 10 union leaders who had defied the injunction.

Dissolution of the injunction was requested by the city in an attempt to settle the industry-stifling walkout, which had caused a virtual "business holiday" in the steel capital.

PITTSBURGH, Sept. 26—(AP)—A walkout by street car operators started today in this strike-harrassed steel capital, already in the grip of a power strike now in its third day.

Other strikes were threatening in apparent sympathy with the walkout by the power workers union.

The strike on the street car system of the Pittsburgh Railways company, main method of public transportation in the city, was called suddenly at 4 a. m., and left thousands of early morning riders without transportation. The company announced all cars had been withdrawn from service.

Business agent John T. Morgan of the AFL Amalgamated Association of Street, Electric Railway and Motor Coach Employes said the walkout of 3,000 trolley operators and service workers was a "protective measure" against threats of violence to men and equipment made by telephone and in person.

He declined to disclose the source of the threats.

Both the Pittsburgh Railways company and the Duquesne Light Co., whose production of electrical energy to an 817 square mile area has been reduced to 40 per cent by the power strike, are subsidiaries of the Philadelphia company.

Helping Power Workers

National and city labor leaders were rallying to the support of the power workers in their fight against an anti-strike injunction handed down by the Allegheny Common Pleas court. Leaders of CIO and AFL organizations in Pittsburgh with approximately 375,000 members called special protest meetings.

Normally the railways company serves about 1,000,000 riders daily with 950 cars. However, since the start of the power strike the number of cars has been reduced to 225 as a measure to conserve electricity.

Meanwhile, the strike of the 3,500 power workers hit an impasse.

More than 2,100 union members voted better than four to one against considering any company offer to end the three-day-old strike until the injunction is lifted.

Over 36,500 Idle

The power strike had more than 36,500 idle—3,500 workers of the struck Duquesne Light Co., 8,000 sympathy strikers at the Jones and Laughlin Steel Corp. and the Westinghouse Electric Corp., and over 25,000 others in scattered mills, mines, offices and shops.

In a dramtic development, union president George L. Mueller, who on Tuesday had been given a year in jail for contempt of court, came before a three-man banc of the Allegheny county court, apologized for having called the court's temporary anti-strike injunction "just a scrap of paper," and was given his freedom for a few hours to attend a meeting of the union.

Mueller promised the court he would ask the 3,200 members of the independent association of employes of the Duquesne Light company to accept a new company offer, end their strike and return to work. The new offer, the company said, included a five per cent pay raise, which would have increased the average base pay from $1.18 to $1.24 an hour. The union demands 20 per cent, or a raise to $1.41 an hour.

Arnold, former pastor of the church, now in Springfield, to the pastorate of their church. Although he has not yet been contacted following the meeting, it is believed that he will accept the offer. —

The Rev. Hallie Rice, present pastor of the church, recently handed in his resignation.

One Way of Getting To the Head of a Meat Market Line

NEW YORK, Sept. 26—(AP)—Two thousand women, lined up at a well-stocked Brooklyn meat market, took it calmly today when the management singled out pregnant women and put them at the head of the line.

That is, until one unidentified woman whose condition seemed obvious dropped a pillow she had concealed under coat. Her face crimson, the woman hurried away, escaping a storm of threats and imprecations.

Six Persons Are Killed in Train Wreck

Transcontinental Train From Chicago Goes Into Ditch

VICTORVILLE, Calif., Sept. 26—(AP)—Six persons and perhaps a seventh were killed in the wreck of Union Pacific passenger train No. 3, the Transcontinnetal Limited from Chicago, two and a half miles east of Victorville this morning. Between 50 and 75 were injured, some seriously.

The bodies of three men and a woman had been removed from the wreckage today, and the body of another woman could be seen in the wreckage of the first chair car, where all the deaths occurred. The body of another man was believed to be still in the wreckage.

The front end of the leading chair car was splintered and its rear end was piled atop the immediately behind it. The first five cars in the train remained upright but were thrown askew on the rails.

Upright But Derailed

The three following Pullmans and diner remained upright but were derailed. Passengers in these cars were less severely injured.

Some of the injured were carried on stretchers half a mile to ambulances on U. S. Highway 66, which parallels the tracks for some distance. Others were brought here on flat cars and removed to Victorville Army Air Field, from where they were flown to Los Angeles hospitals in ambulance planes.

Rioting at Film Plants

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 26—(AP)—The long-smouldering Hollywood labor dispute again broke into open flames today as the conference of Studio Unions (AFL) threw picket lines around the major film plants amid scenes of rioting and violence.

Several arrests were made at studio gates, and there several sluggings as the CSU went all out in its jurisdictional dispute with its AFL rival, the International Alliance of Theatrical Stage employes.

At Warner Brothers a picket was arrested for allegedly slugging a man who attempted to pass the line. At the same studio, where last year's similar dispute was climaxed in bloodshed and rioting, pickets attempted to overturn several automobiles in which workmen were entering. Police beat off the pickets.

Seek Airmen in Slaveholding Areas

CHENGTU, China, Sept. 26—(AP)—A U. S. Army search team plunged deeper into China's wild and mountainous far west today seeking long-lost American airmen feared captives of the fierce slaveholding Lolos.

On the second day of their mission into the land of cloud-capped mountains. Half-savage, Mongolian-featured warriors, and pandas, the soldiers were believed to be from five to 11 days march from their goal.

That goal is the valley of the Chinkiang, which carves its course from headwaters in the world's highest mountains in Tibet.

Missionaries have reported at least eight enslaved whites were seen grinding corn or tending flocks in that region, where few white men save the missionaries have ever ventured.

Set Up Headquarters

Lt. Col. Herbert W. Wurtzler and his detachment expected to set up headquarters at a remote Catholic mission and try to learn there if the white captives are U. S. airmen downe two and more years ago on the perilous flight "over the hump," from India to China.

His party flew down to Sichang, about 300 miles southwest of Chengtu. The mission is an estimated four days march west of Sichang. The region where the white men were seen is from two to eight days march farther westward.

Wurtzler hoped to talk with those who saw the white men. Then he will try to locate the captives through friendly Lolo chieftains.

Dr. David Crockett Graham of West China university, who entered the Lolo country 20 years ago, said here that the Lolos probably would demand blankets and salt for ransom because their economy was based on the practice of slavery.

Communications Primitive

Wurtzler was accompanied by a French priest, who knows the fringes of Lololand. So primitive are communications that no developments were expected to be reported here inside of two weeks.

Reports reaching here said that an intertribal war was in progress somewhere ahead of Wurtzler's party, and this might further delay negotiations for the release of any airmen found.

(In Buffalo, N. Y., James M. Pellegrine told an interviewer he had flown into the country last September as a technical engineer to repair a forced-down Chinese plane and had been attacked by Lolos who had small arms "stolen from captured, and usually murdered airmen.")

Blast Rips off Store Front

ATLANTA, Sept. 26—(AP)— A terrific blast, which police said they believed was caused by dynamite, early today ripped off the fronts of four business establishments located on the edge of the downtown section. No one was injured.

The explosion ripped open the front of Parker's Sno-White laundry pickup station at 608 Washington street, S. W., near the state capitol and tore windows and doors from two delicatessens and a beauty shop.

Windows were broken in several houses and residents were awakened from their sleep. Streets were littered with glass.

Police began a search for several men who were reported seen near the wreckage examining it with flashlights shortly after the explosion. Police said a black fuse was discovered in the wreckage.

Dinner Fork In Stomach

MILWAUKEE, Sept. 26—(AP)—Joseph E. Lobner, 21, has complained to Veterans' Administration doctors that he has a dinner fork in his stomach but doesn't know how it got there.

Dr. Leslie H. Wright, chief medical officer at the Wood, Wis., facility, said that Lobner entered the hospital Tuesday, bringing with him X-ray plates showing the utensil lying diagonally across his abdomen with the tines pointing upward.

Dr. Wright said an operation was planned and Lobner added, "If it turns out to be a navy fork, I won't sent it back, but if it's mother's and I ate it when I was a kid, she can return it to the set."

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Sept. 26—(AP)—The "Typical American Nurse of 1946 is Miss Elizabeth Brooks, daughter of Dr. E. E. Brooks, Burden, Kas.

The 24-year-old red haired head nurse at Chlidren's hospital, St. Louis, Mo., was elected for the honor last night at the biennial convention of the American Nurses Association. The honor carried with it a $750 scholarship by the ANA's advisory committee of the Carter Scholarship fund.

Miss Brooks served three years overseas as an army nurse and last August completed her work for a B. S. degree at St. Louis university.

Proceed With Plans for Bonus March

Veterans to Leave Springfield Friday, Coming Sedalia Way

SPRINGFIELD, Mo., Sept. 26—(AP)—Springfield's bonus-marching war veterans, scheduled to leave Friday night for Jefferson City, will stay in the state capital until they "get an answer, one way or the other," ex-Marine Murl E. Owen, one of the leaders of the march, said today.

"This will be a peaceful demonstration to show Governor Donnelly that there are thousands of veterans who think there should be a bonus," Owen explained. "We'll stay until we get an answer—yea or nay."

Previously, Owen had declared that the bonus marchers would "camp on the governor's doorstep" until a $400 bonus was granted to each of the state's war veterans — which presumably would mean they would stay until Governor Donnelly called the state legislature into special session.

The veterans proceeded with plans for the march despite a warning from Springfield's mayor Harry B. Carr that they are "going about this thing in the wrong way."

Coming Through Sedalia

"You are interested in a bonus," he said, "and you have every right to be. But this isn't the right way to go about it. The American way is to work this thing out through the legislature."

Owen and Sgt. Gale Zenner, who is in charge of the Marine corps recruiting office here, visited the mayor yesterday and asked that he declare Saturday a holiday so that more veterans could go to Jefferson City.

The mayor flatly refused, explaining that he has "no legal or moral authority to declare such a holiday."

Veterans are scheduled to assemble on the public square here at 8 o'clock Friday night, then travel to Jefferson City "in anything that will roll" via highway 65 to Sedalia and highway 50 from Sedalia to Jefferson City.

Owen said he expects 15,000 veterans from Springfield and the Ozarks to take part in the march.

TRENTON, Mo., Sept. 26—(AP)—A state bonus for veterans of World War II was favored last night in a resolution adopted by the Major Dale Stepp post of the American Legion.

Officers of the post said they believed the action made it the first post in Missouri to publicly announce opposition to the anti-bonus resolution passed at the state Legion convention in Kansas City early this month.

Among those present at the meeting were Earl Barnes, Chillicothe, district commander and his adjutant, Ed Allen.

Record Price

ST. JOSEPH, Mo., Sept. 26—(AP)—A new record was set today at the Interstate Baby Beef and Pig club show when the grand champion barrow, owned by Billy Loveland of Buchanan county, was sold at 80 cents a pound. The buyer was a St. Joseph serum company.

The previous high price paid in the 26-year-old sale was 76 cents pound.

A Real Problem

ST. JOSEPH, Mo., Sept. 26—(AP)—How to evict a tenant 7½ months arrears in rent is the problem of the MacDonald-Duggar-Duncan American Legion post.

The tenant is the regional OPA Rent Control Office.

Post Commander Arch Pickrell, naming a committee to see what could be done, said the government had paid no rent since the post took over the downtown building last February. The amount due, Pickrell said, is $1,500.

Federal Claim On Meat

Army Demands Fourth of Meat Supply of Federal Inspected Slaughters

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Sept. 26—(AP)— The White House today turned aside questions about suspending price controls on meat—an issue that has split administration supporters and set up a hungry clamor throughout the nation.

Press Secretary Charles G. Ross told reporters he was "not at liberty" to discuss the proposal of house majority leader McCormack (D-Mass) that controls on meat and other scarce foods be lifted for 60 days.

"I am not at liberty to discuss that," Ross said. "All I know is what I have read in the papers. I have no comment."

The army meanwhile slapped a claim on 25 per cent of all meat coming from federally-inspected slaughterers.

House leader McCormack told newsmen in Boston yesterday he had discussed the price control issue with Mr. Truman and other administration officials in Washington and hinted he could possibly count on the president's support.

Party Chiefs Assemble

With the pre-election storm over bare meat counters mounting in intensity, top Democratic party chiefs assembled here for a meeting that seemed certain to take note of the whole situation.

The congressional elections are just 40 days off.

But the army showed no disposition to await possible action by any other branch of government.

Reporting that its "visible supply of meat is less than a month's requirement," the army last night served priority papers on all packers operating under federal inspection ordering them to set aside 25 percent of their total output for the armed services, the war shipping administration and veterans hospitals.

While reminding that "punitive action" awaits those who violate the set-aside orders, the army announcement left unanswered whether its goal of 60,000,000 lbs. of meat a month could be achieved.

Meat Vanished

"Meat slaughter is descending to the vanishing point," it declared.

The political storm broke in earnest yesterday after house Democratic leader McCormack of Massachusetts demanded in a telegram to price chief Paul Porter that OPA suspend control over meat and other scarce food products so "our hospitals and our citizens" can have enough to eat.

Republican National Chairman Carroll Reece, branding McCormack's action as "cheap politics," noted in a statement that the 60-day period proposed would carry the suspension just past the November 5 elections .

Declaring the Massachusetts Democrat is trying "to kid the voters," Reece added that if the administration "had listened to Republican advice during the last session of congress such chicanery as Mr. McCormack now proposes would be unnecessary."

Reece called the control system "unworkable."

County Judges Interested in Two Topics of Importance

JEFFERSON CITY, Sept. 26—(AP)—Two topics of vital importance to county courts shared interest of the Missouri County Judges Association meeting here today.

Several scheduled speakers were unable to attend and Association President O. L. Carrothers of Carthage threw the meeting into an opgn discussion.

The recently enacted "milk route" bill and special road district troubles immediately took the center of the stage.

There was some difference of opinion as to whether the act for rural road improvement provides for up to $750 a mile in state aid or whether the state money and the matching county funds can total only $750. Pending an attorney general's opinion, Judge Carrothers said, he believed the lawmakers intended that the state provide up to $750 a mile in matching money.

The judges showed interest in a new law providing the county court may retain 20 per cent of the first special road district levy, which cannot exceed 35 cents on the $100 valuation. Thereafter, it was explained, the district could levy up to 35 cents additional and get all the revenue.

Later today M. E. Morris, director of the new state revenue department, G. H. Bates, collector, and Forrest Smith, state auditor, were scheduled speakers. Sen. Frank P. Briggs was to address the group late this afternoon.

Raymond Fetters, who for more than 10 years has been sanitary and license officer of the city of Sedalia, has tendered his resignation to Mayor Julian H. Bagby to become effective as of September 30. It is the hope of the city officials the new trucks, with specially built bodies for the garbage work will be in Sedalia by the middle of October and not later than the first of November. The manufacturer of the bodies has practically assured the city the latest date would be November 1.

Clark, who prior to the change was on the police department, began his training program the first of the week. He is expected to take over the new duties officially October 1.

Fetters' resignation will be presented to the city council for action on Monday, October 7.

Drivers Must Prove Financial Responsibility

(This is the first of two articles on Missouri's new drivers' responsibility law. It furnishes a brief account of what led up to the statute which becomes effective October 6.)

By George Sitterley

JEFFERSON CITY, Sept. 26—(AP)—After more than a decade of effort on the part of sponsors the Missouri Legislature this year enacted a law forcing automobile drivers who have accidents to prove their financial responsibility in any future accidents before they can retain their right to operate an automobile.

All those years legislative backers and interested Missourians hammered for a law to rule the irresponsible driver from the road and at the same time protect the careful and responsible driver's right to use the highways and streets in the state.

They believe they have achieved it in the statute which takes effect October 6. It was introduced in April, 1945, by the late Rep. Ira Hyde of Mercer county, one of its strongest proponents.

Did Not See It Enacted

Hyde did not live to see it enacted. He died last spring, a little more than two months before the assembly gave the bill its final approval. Gov. Phil M. Donnelly signed the bill a month later in the presence of Hyde's widow and successor in the legislature, Mrs. Lorene Hyde.

There was some opposition to the bill, primarily from those who declared it a measure sponsored by the insurance companies and from those who said it discriminated against the low income automobile operators.

Both charges were leveled against the provision for proving future financial responsibility.

Briefly, if a driver has an accident and a judgment is set against him he has 30 days in which to satisfy the judgment. If he fails to pay up or make an arrangement for installment payments, the state commissioner of motor vehicles must revoke his driver's license and suspend his automobile registration.

Must Show Responsibility

Before he can get back his right to drive an automobile he must pay the damages assessed against him and show financial responsibility for any future judgments. Future responsibility can be proved by obtaining liability insurance, by filing with the commissioner of vehicles a surety bond or by depositing with the secretary of state money or securities to cover future judgments.

Opponents said the insurance companies would be the big gainers from the law but supporters pointed out that the driver had two alternate methods of proving responsibility.

Those who leveled the second charge against the act said low income operators could prove responsibility only by obtaining liability insurance because they would not be able to provide bond or security.

Some Are Poor Risks

The bill's backers replied that no one has to worry until he fails to pay a judgment assessed against him or is arrested for a major traffic violation. Those are the drivers they wanted off the road, barred from any future opportunity to kill or maim. If the insurance companies consider a man a poor risk because he has had serious accidents in the past and because he was unable or unwilling to pay damages, then the state considers him a poor risk on the highways.

No one is being discriminated against, they said, because he has his "first chance before he comes under the law. If he fails to accept his responsibilities as an automobile operator then he must be barred from any future opportunity to cause personal or property damage.

(In tomorrow's article the operation of the law through a hypothetical case will be explained.)

King George of Greece 'Off Again, On Again'

By NEA Service

KING GEORGE of Greece is getting his old job back again. For King George, it's an old story; he's been on and then off the Greek throne ever since his father, King Constantine, abdicated in 1922. His kingly career has been among the most stormy in modern history.

Robust and healthy at 56, King George will take a well-rounded knowledge of world politics and a democratic outlook with him when he returns to Greece. He has a tough job ahead of him. Greece's war wounds are among the worst in the world, and her internal politics are in a constant state of turmoil.

King George's first tiff with revolution came less than two years after he succeeded his father. Gen. Gonatas proclaimed a republic in March, 1924, and a plebiscite held a month later confirmed the abolition of the monarchy. King George, who refused to abdicate, spent most of his time in Great Britain, awaiting another plebiscite which recalled him to the Greek throne in November, 1935.

His job as king didn't amount to much. Gen. John Metavas assumed dictatorial powers the next year, and while the king stayed on, he was more or less a figurehead.

The war gave the king a chance to prove himself. In the face of the German invasion, he stayed with his troops. When the Greeks and the British were forced to fall back, first from Greece to Crete, and later from Crete to Egypt, King George remained with the remnant of his army.

German parachutists chased him across Crete for three days, but he managed to elude them. The Germans believed that with King George in their hands, Greek resistance would end.

For his valor during the retreat, Britain awarded him the D.S.O., the only sovereign ever to receive that decoration, and his own country gave him the Greek War Cross.

Government in Exile

For a while, King George maintained his government in Egypt. Later it was moved to South Africa and finally to Great Britain. He once objected vigorously to being called a "king in exile."

"Who has exiled me?" he said. "I left my country with the rest of my army after rallying to the side of Britain at a time, in 1941, when she stood alone against the Germans. We were driven out by the overwhelming force of the invasion."

During the war years, King George continued to fight for Greece's cause, and even visited the U. S., in 1942, to help cement relations between the two countries. He was received by Congress whom he addressed on Greek problems, and by President Roosevelt. Politicians found him a genial man, with a keen sense of humor and an infectious laugh.

When peace came, King George's future hung in the balance. Many monarchs were losing their thrones. In deference to the Greek Republicans and upon advice of Great Britain, King George remained away from his homeland until invited to return by a free expression of the national will. Pending that referendum, he named Archbishop Damaskinos as Regent. The referendum gave the king his old job back once more. He probably will return to Athens later this month.

King George has no illusions about the job ahead of him.

"Before making plans I must be in personal touch with the tremendous task of reconstruction to be carried out in Greece," he says.

"One must not forget that the damage done by the Germans, the Italians, and the Bulgarians was on an unprecedented scale. Hundreds of towns and villages, all bridges, large and small, roads, railways, public utilities—everything was destroyed.

Wounds Must Heal

"Greece must heal those wounds so that the people may once again be able to have the means of earning a livelihood. Reforms must be put in hand and ways must be found to raise the standard of living of the poor, so that living conditions of the workers, and particularly of the peasants, may be improved, and Greece may attain the level of other prosperous countries.

"Twice already I have taken my place on the throne of my country. Conditions were difficult then; this time they will be far more formidable."

Without children of his own—his marriage to Princess Elizabeth of Rumania was dissolved in 1935—King George will be succeeded by his brother, Prince Paul, should he die and should the Greeks continue the monarchy. He is convinced that such a government is the best thing for Greece.

"Without personal prejudice in its favor, I feel that constitutional monarchy is a political institution of proved value," he once said. "It is a good thing for one element in the state to be above party conflict."

He likes the job.

Case Against Long Skirts

This is the long . . .

BY EPSIE KINARD
NEA Staff Writer

Spearhead of the revolt against the trend towards longer skirts is guess who?

"Oomph girl" Ann Sheridan, whose Irish is up. Crossing exhibits A and B in her case against fashion's decree, the Texas-born redhead said her skirts are going to stay where they are—16 inches from the floor.

Accusing the fashion-makers of using old bait—that of outmoding existing styles so that new wardrobes will be required—Ann thinks American women are too smart to bite.

Queries the "oomph girl," who won't be take in: "What's the sense of making bigger yardage demands when the nation is trying to recover from shortages?"

Wagging a finger at dictum-makers who threaten to put wearable clothes into discard by declaring that "skirts will be longer this season," Ann says they won't if women won't wear them.

To girls invited to join her camp, Ann makes two more rallying cries: "Who wants a lot of excess cloth spiraling around her legs? To conceal decorative pins with long skirts is like concealing a statue with a tent."

". . . and short of it.

Chicago Tea Party

"We were afraid there mightn't be any here," says Irene Munn (seated), so she and Hilda Thorndike brought their tea with them from England to Chicago, where they're brewing a nice hot cup after school.

By NEA Service

CHICAGO, (NEA)—Two English school marms who so little trusted the "land of plenty" that they brought their own tea with them "just in case" have settled down in suburban Cicero to teach the next 10 months.

They are Irene Munn of Manchester and Hilda Thorndike of Crewe, two of the 74 English school teachers who will be exchanged for 74 American teachers as part of a program sponsored by the English Speaking Union, the American Association of University Women, and the governments of the two countries.

"We brought the tin of tea along because we were afraid there mightn't be any here," laughed Miss Munn. "There's a shortage of nearly everything in England you know."

The girls found on their arrival, however, that everything in the U. S. is just "ripping." They went on a shopping spree. Inasmuch as the girls will make only $2000 each year, they had to content themselves with essentials or just plain looking. But they had the time of their lives.

"We've heard about your glamour and your wonderful cosmetics and all, and we want to see for ourselves," Miss Thorndike said. When a photographer caught them at the perfume counter at a Chicago store sniffing scents, it was Miss Thorndyke who said:

"Oh, this is heaven! I hope he takes forever."

The shoes they found were "simply ripping" ("English shoes are so blamed sturdy"). Dresses were "bonny" and hats "smashing."

"It makes you feel guilty to see so much luxury," Miss Munn said. Then she added, "But you know, I think we're going to have an awfully good time here."

The threat of Chicago's male wolves caused them not a tremor.

"Bring 'em on!" said Miss Munn. "Wolves are the same the world over!"

They have only one complaint of Chicago hospitality so far.

"We wouldn't get lost in Chicago if people would only stop directing us north, south, east or west, and just say 'go right' or 'left.'"

As for school, wel school's pretty much the same the world over.

BACKACHE, LEG PAINS MAY BE DANGER SIGN

Of Tired Kidneys

If backache and leg pains are making you miserable, don't just complain and do nothing about them. Nature may be warning you that your kidneys need attention.

The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking excess acids and poisonous waste out of the blood. They help most people pass about 3 pints a day.

If the 15 miles of kidney tubes and filters don't work well, poisonous waste matter stays in the blood. These poisons may start nagging backaches, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, a stimulant diuretic, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. Doan's give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from the blood. Get Doan's Pills.

Voice From Down Under:

It is Heard in World Councils---and Wherever Aussies Gather; They Find It Natural to Fight for Democracy

The "voice from down under" echoes in New York as Aussies right around the table are Peter Morison of Sydney; Viola Clarke, gather at "grog time" with friends from other countries. Left to Melbourne; Nathan Broch, a Czechoslovakian; Janet Polk of New York; Laurence Fairhall, Palmerston, New Zealand; Ron Williams, New South Wales, and Dorothy Geoghegan, a Canadian.

Editor's Note: Who are these Australians whose voice is so earnestly and insistently heard in today's world councils as they champion their way of living and speak out for the little nations? For a clearer understanding of these people, here is the story of why "The Voice from Down Under" is so strong, so confident. This is the first of three dispatches.

By MARC J. PARSONS
NEA Staff Correspondent

Australia, one of the newest leaders among the nations of the world, is large in area, small in population, and strong in democracy.

GI bride from Australia, Aneza Grossman of Sydney married a U.S. Army sergeant, now lives near New York. Here she shows on map places she's visited in America since she left her home "down under."

Tied only very loosely to the old world through its membership in the British Commonwealth of Nations, it has borrowed the best in democracy from both Europe and America, and now is striding down a new path of its own in history.

Australia finds it natural to fight for its ideals both at home and abroad, because it is still close to its rugged pioneering days. The staunchness of its people is reflected in their clipped accents, their love of the outdoors, their friendliness, and their insistence on justice for all.

This insistence is not confined to their remote continent. It has been heard in strong, confident and constant tones of late in the councils of world powers, where the voice from "down under" champions democracy and the rights of the little nations.

It is heard everywhere Australians gather. In the Aussie colony in and around New York, I heard it from government workers, journalists, and the Australian brides of U.S. GIs, some 10,000 airline miles from their homeland. Here they like to gather in cosmopolitan groups, to brag of their growing cities, of their games, their middle-of-the road liberalism, and their new part in world affairs.

Strike and a Picnic

They have many way of explaining their homeland. At afternoon "grog time" in a small New York City cafe, where many of them frequently gather, one Australian explained his nation in terms of a strike which extended to a day that had been set aside for a giant company picnic. On that day, the union called off the strike. Employer and employees alike went to the picnic and had a rousing good time. When the picnic was over, the strike was resumed.

Both the strike and the picnic were in many ways typical of the mass of Australia's hard-working people who believe in unionization and an outdoor life.

Their strong trade union dominates the government. Not only have industries been unionized but also many of the vast wheat, dairy and fruit farms as well. Many Australians look upon the unions of the United States as rather weak organizations compared to their own.

Aneza Zimeris Grossman, who spent 22 years in Sydney, Australia, before she married a U. S. Army sergeant and came to the United States to live, saw the difference best when the coal strike threatened to close up U. S. utilities.

"We once were without gas and electricity for nine weeks during such a strike," she recalled. "People had to cook in back yard ovens and use candles for lights. Almost everyone was in sympathy with the strike. And the labor government made no attempt to force a settlement of the strike in favor of either the strikers or the companies involved. That just wouldn't be democratic in the way we look at it."

Still Have Rationing

Australians are proud of the fact that they still have food rationing at home. It isn't that they don't have food enough to go around. They are sharing what they do have with the rest of the world, and have even reduced their own rations since the war's end so that they could send more abroad.

"Mother stood in line the other day for 35 minutes to buy one egg, and then the eggs were all gone when she got to the counter," Mrs. Grossman says. "But she doesn't complain about the rationing program and there is really very little grumbling. People generally are in favor of it.

"Prices on the few luxuries available have gone sky high, partly because they are so scarce and partly because U. S. servicemen bid the prices so high. But on things like food, rent and clothing, price lines have been held pretty well and I don't think we have anywhere near the inflationary problem the United States has.

"And I think our standard of living, at least in the lower income brackets, is higher than it is in America. Wages, of course are much lower, but so are all the costs, and the even smaller wages that Australians get buy them more of the things they need for comfortable living than wages for the same kind of jobs do in the United States.

"Naturally we have a lot of strikes. Our unions are much stronger. But many of the strikes are to improve working conditions and things like that, and not necessarily to force wages higher."

Australians are a sports loving people who find rugby and Australian League football, cricket, tennis and other competitive games another manifestation of working democracy. Except for horse racing there is little heavy betting and very little professionalism in athletics.

The custom of having a best man at weddings is believed to be a survival of primitive marriage by capture, when a man seized a woman and carried her away by force.

The triangula. tract of land that often forms at the mouth of a river is called a delta because in outline it resembles the fourth letter of the Greek alphabet.

The first prayer meeting held in the United States by the Salvation Army, took place in Battery Park, New York City, in 1880.

Oak Grove Club Has Meeting

The Oak Grove Extension club held their September meeting Thursday afternoon at their club house with Mrs. Elmer Mewes as hostess and Mrs. Elsie Moon assisting hostess. Mrs. H. A. Wilson, vice president had charge of the meeting, in the absence of the president, Mrs. Ray Petty, who is quite ill at her home. The collect was repeated in unison and roll call was answered by "A trait that makes a woman charming" and "Hints on winter vegetable storage." Mrs. H. A. Wilson read a letter from Miss Alice Mae Alexander, our home demonstration agent, from which we learned that the Pettis County Achievement Day had been postponed until sometime in October, to be held in connection with the "Mum and Flower Show."

The monthly News letter from Miss Army Kelly was read by Mrs. F. W. Welling. It was decided that the club send a Christmas box overseas for the "good will of our neighbor." Mrs. O. F. Gorrell gave the health bulletin and Mrs. F. W. Welling had charge of the devotional. The next meeting to be held on October 6th at which time a basket dinner will be for all members and their families. The hostesses will be, Mrs. Will Sperber, Mrs. C. E. Cole, Mrs. B. E. Evans, and Mrs. Ernest Schlobohm. Miss Stella Sperber and Misses Dorothy and Marie Mewes were guests.

Olive Branch PTA Meeting

A large group of members and friends of the Olive Branch district met Friday night, September 20 at the school for the regular P. T. A. meeting.

The business meeting, with Mrs. I. J. Rhoads presiding, was opened with the group singing "America" and giving the Flag Salute. Miss Jo Ann Hyatt was the pianist.

It was reported that the hot-lunch program sponsored by the P. T. A. was progressing splendidly. Walton Berry reported $30.58 cleared at the recent ice cream social.

The high-light of the evening was an address by Guy Peabody who told of his hobby of studying and raising pigeons.

Several families joined the P. T. A. organization. Mr. Peabody asked to be and was admitted as a member of the group.

Seven Days of Plush in Japan

Four Yanks see Nippon in Style as Contest Prize

In club car of deluxe train in which Yanks made their 1500-mile trip, the contest winners and their Red Cross hosts have a songfest. Clockwise from extreme left are: Sgt. Thomas Mair, Chicago; T/5 Wayne Dugan, Altoona, Pa.; Miss Nissley Brundt, Hamburg, N. Y.; Capt. Richard Caudle, Atlanta, Ga.; Maxine Tate, Tooele, Utah; Lt. Florence Serbin, Wilmette, Ill.; Lucy Crackett, Seven-Mile Ford, Va., and Lt. and Mrs. Leo Dohogue, Miami, Oklahoma.

Over the heads of the GI tourists you're watching a star Japanese dancing girl perform at a villa near Kyoto, Jap center of culture. She's dancing for three American servicemen and a service woman who won a "plush tour" of Japan.

Seven-day excursion for the Yanks included a visit to colorful Ainu tribesmen at Shiraoi, where Lt. Florence Serbin, one of the Red Cross contest winners, is shown with two of the tribesmen as they show her an ancient dagger.

By NEA Service

TOKYO, (NEA) — T/5 Wayne Dugan of Altoona, Pa., is back at mundane occupation duties after a 1500-mile tour he says was "seven days of plush and a week of fat-catting."

Dugan and two other American servicemen and a servicewoman made the tourist trip as winners of a Red Cross "Eye to the Future" contest. With Red Cross workers to conduct their sightseeing, they visited shrines, hot springs, famous hotels, the war crimes trials, a silk mill, and picturesque villages.

And it was no dusty, bumpy jeep trip, either. They rode in the "Coronet Special," the deluxe, five-car train of Lieut. Gen. Robert L. Eichelberger, commanding general of the Eighth Army. A far cry from the flea-ridden coaches that GIs and Japs alike have to ride when they travel on Nip railroads, the "Coronet Special" was once reserved for the Imperial household.

Dugan's contest-winning companions for the "week of fat-catting" were Sgt. Thomas Mair, Chicago; Capt. Richard Caudle, of Atlanta, Ga., and Lt. Florence Serbin, Wilmette, Ill.

Pittsburgh is one of the most frequently misspelled place names in the United States.

The cost of food of Columbus' expedition was fixed at 6 pesetas a month per each man, or about four or five cents daily.

Relaxing in the cramped Jap-style luxury of the Grand hotel at Noboribetsu, are Miss Tate (foreground) and Lt. Serbin.

'Dream' Roads Drive Starts

WASHINGTON, Sept. 26—(AP)—A nationwide campaign for building without delay a 40,000-mile system of "dream" highways authorized by congress in 1944 was launched today at the inaugural session of the National Highway Transportation congress.

The project calls for developing in 20 years a vast network of super highways stretching from coast to coast and from border to border. It is expected to involve expenditure of more than $12,000,000,000, which has yet to be provided.

"Destination of the routes is now virtually complete," said William A. Stinchcomb of Cleveland, chairman of the American Automobile Association's highway and lagislative committee.

Stinchcomb said the network, linking the major cities and the agriculture, industrial and recreational resources of the nation, was designed to carry 20 percent of the highway transportation traffic load and would benefit two-thirds of the nation's motor vehicle users.

Welcomes Investigation

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 26—(AP)—Housing Expediter Wilson Wyatt said today he would welcome an inquiry into the administration's home building program by the Senate War Investigating committee.

Senator Ferguson (R-Mich) recommended in Washington that the committee make such an inquiry and termed the administration's housing program "a fraud upon the American people."

Approval to MPSC Request

JEFFERSON CITY, Sept 26—(AP)—The Missouri Public Service commission approved today the financing plans submitted by two Missouri utilities, one to pay for improvements in facilities of the Missouri Public Service Corporation of Warrensburg and the other to re-finance the United Telephone company of Kansas City.

The Warrensburg corporation, supplying electrical power and gas to western Missouri consumers, received permission to issue $750,000 worth of first mortgage, series B bonds, carrying 2⅞ percent interest and maturing in 1976.

The utility would use the money to pay part of the cost of $401,637 in additions and improvements already completed and some $891,695 in improvements expected to be completed by the end of 1947.

Unbondable portions of the work will be financed out of the corporation's treasury.

The United Telephone company, having 57 telephone exchanges in Missouri, would issue $1,000,000 in series A first mortgage bonds, carrying 2⅞ percent interest and maturing in 1971, under approval of its plan.

Found Guilty, Must Die

LONDON, Sept. 26—(AP)—Neville George Clevely Heath, 29, was convicted today of the murder of Mrs. Margaret Gardner, 32-year-old film extra and was sentenced to die.

The verdict was returned after an hour's deliberation by a jury of 10 men and two women.

Counsel for the handsome flier had pleaded that he be found "guilty but insane" in the sadistic slaying.

Heath, a former Royal Air Force pilot, also was charged with the murder of Miss Doreen Marshall, exWren whose horribly mutilated body was found near a south coast resort within two weeks of the Gardner slaying. The verdict made a second trial unnecessary.

Asked after announcement of the verdict whether he had anything to say, Heath replied:

"Nothing."

Two prison doctors testified today against the defense contention that Heath was morally insane. Both said the 29-year-old flier was not insane, but described him as a psychopathic personality.

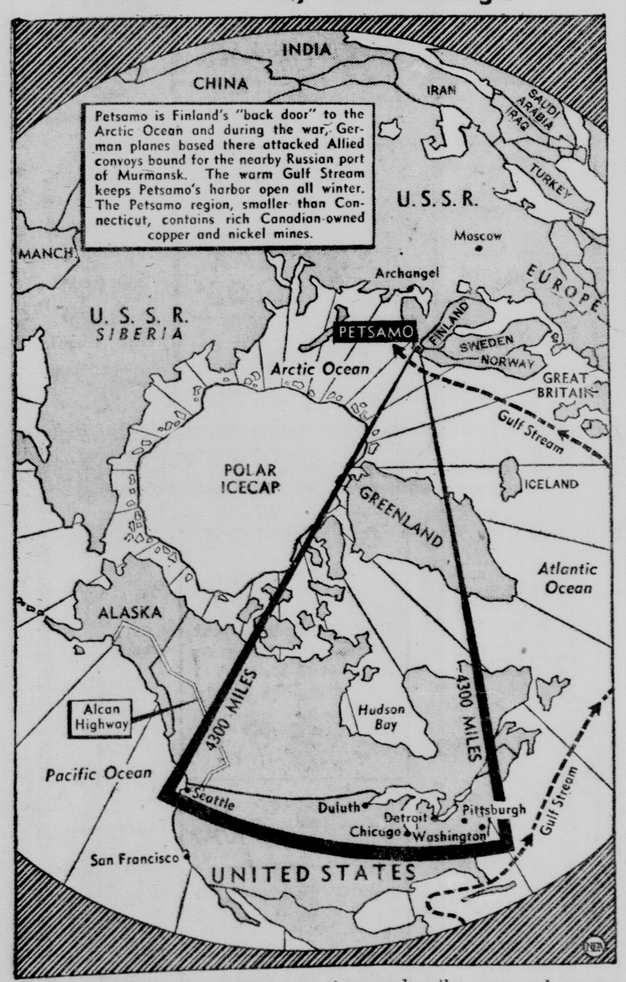
Arctic Port May Prove Strategic



In getting Finland's Petsamo region, under the proposed peace treaty, Russia would receive an ice-free port on the Arctic Ocean. But those who think in terms of the new aerial geography see her also getting a potential air base nearer to the western hemisphere than any other Soviet area except the desolate tip of Siberia. Map above shows how, over the newly important Arctic route, a 4300-mile flight-arc would take in the northern tier of important U. S. industrial areas from Seattle to Pittsburgh, and cut the Alcan Highway.

In a Mess at The Moment

WASHINGTON, Sept. 26—(AP)—Alfred P. Sloan, Jr., chairman of General Motors Corp., said today "We are in a mess" because "we attempt to solve strictly economic problems on the basis of a political formula."

Addressing the National Highway Transportation Congress, Sloan said:

"Today the automotive industry is beset by all manner of limitations. It is not what we would like to do, what we had planned to do, or expected to do. It is what we are permitted to do.

"Indifferent workers take the place of effective workers. Work stoppages take the place of continuous operation. Absenteeism takes the place of full service. Naturally it does not work.

"And then some wonder why we are in such a mess and we certainly are in a mess at the moment. Our opportunities for accomplishment were never greater, on the one hand, and the obstacles against some progress never more discouraging, on the other."

Plan Welcome For Their King

By L. S. Chakales

ATHENS, Sept. 26—(AP)— The Greek government completed today its plans for welcoming King George II back to his throne despite fierce border fighting and civil strife in northern Greece which Premier Constantin Tsaldaris says has reached the magnitude of war.

Athens will close down completely Saturday morning for the king's reception and police authorities announced that all permits for carrying arms had been suspended.

Police said persons lining the route of the parade marking the monarch's return to Greece after five years of exile would not be permitted to circulate and that any person was liable to search.

All persons were forbidden to watch the parade from rooftops or terraces for a depth of about 100 yards from the route of march, which will begin at Faleron Bay and continue to the Greek cathedral in the heart of Athens.

The king was to arrive at an airport on the Peloponnesus and then board a destroyer for the journey to Piraeus, the port of Athens.

OK to Three State Projects

WASHINGTON, Sept. 26—(AP)—Approval of a $15,500 advance to the University of Missouri to finance preparation of plans for a new classroom building was announced today by the Federal Works agency.

The structure, estimated to cost $395,800, will include an auditorium in addition to classrooms.

It was the largest of three projects approved for Missouri. New Florence in Montgomery county received an advance of $2,680 to finance preparations for a $73,389 waterworks system and Normandy in St. Louis county received $8,160 to prepare plans for a sanitary sewage collection system to cost $208,894.

Farm Program Unchanged

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 26—(AP)—The Veterans Administration rescued today a decision which would have cut subsistence allowances for 12,000 veterans engaged in on-the-farm training in Arkansas, Oklahoma, Missouri and Kansas, the agency's St. Louis branch office announced.

C. B. Sherry, VA director of vocational rehabilitation and education for the four states, said a telegram from the VA's central office in Washington, had advised that "pending consideration" by the next congress, operation of the farm training program would be unchanged with the following exceptions.

Farm veterans, like other veterans, can not receive subsistence which would bring their earnings to more than $200 per month for a veteran with dependents or $175 per month for a veteran without dependents.

NEW YORK, Sept. 26—(AP)—The Bronx zoo's tapir decided yesterday that after three years of confinement it was time he was on the outside looking in.

Finding the two doors leading from his cage unlocked, the 500-pound animal pushed them open with his long nose and for a half hour ambled in the sunlight, getting acquainted with the Bronx:

Keepers put an abrupt end to his stroll, however, using lassoes to corral him.

Greek Claims Withdrawn

PARIS, Sept. 26—(AP)—Greece withdrew her claims against Albania for transfer of the Northern Epirus region at a full dress session tonight of the peace conference, called to consider a plan to complete treaties with Finland, Italy, Romania, Hungary and Bulgaria by Oct. 15.

The surprise withdrawal of the Greek demands came when Edward Kardelj vice-premier of Yugoslavia, reminded the session that the claims against Albania-held Epirus had been on the agenda for plenary sessions held Aug. 30 and Sept. 6, but were still awaiting action.

The demands were bitterly contested by Russia and the Slav bloc when first made Aug. 30 and postponed on general agreement because of the then-pending Greek plebiscite.

Secretary of State Byrnes was presiding at the plenary session, the first in nearly a month. In opening it he said. "the time has come to facilitate the work of the conference."

Time Needed To Get Houses

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 26—(AP)—The government is using imagination and ingenuity in attacking the housing emergency, but it will take time for the housing supply to catch up with the demand, Wilson W. Wyatt, national housing expediter, told the annual conference of the National Urban League in an address today.

"It will take time to get all-out housing production, just as it took time to get all-out war production" the speaker said. "And to give you an idea of how rapidly housing demand is increasing, you have only to note that the current average rate of marriages is almost 100,000 a month.

"For more than a decade the housing supply has been falling behind the need. We haven't built enough houses for years. Add to that the demobilization of 13 million men in a year's time. We demobilized more men in one month than the largest number of houses this nation has ever built in one year."

Plan to Replace NFTW Union

WASHINGTON, Sept. 26—(AP)—Plans are being perfected today to scrap the National Federation of Telephone Workers (NFTW) and replace it with a tight national union of unprecedented scope within the nation's communications industry.

Final action on the proposal will be taken at a special NFTW convention in Denver, November 4 to 16. The new organization probably will be known as the Communications Workers of America.

Stock Leaders Up

NEW YORK, Sept. 26—(AP)—The stock market crawled over an irregular path until the final hour today when enough support arrived to put leaders generally in the rising bracket and register the third successive average upturn.

The proceedings were relatively sluggish during most of the session but picked up toward the finish when purchasing orders became a bit more insistent. While the majority of advances ranged from fractions to 3 at the close, assorted "thin" issues were up 6 or so. A number of losers persisted. Transfers in the neighborhaad of 1,200,000 shares were among the smallest of the past month.

Prominent on forward push were U. S. Gypsum, Du Pont, Johns-Manville, U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, Chrysler, General Motors, Goodyear, Goodrich, Woolworth, Douglas Aircraft, American Telephone, Kennecott, Union Pacific, Southern Railway and Northern Pacific.

On the offside were Dow Chemical, Allied Chemical, Air Reduction, Reynolds Spring, U. S. Rubber, Great Northern and Chesapeake and Ohio.

Bonds were uneven.

Wheat Futures To New High

CHICAGO, Sept. 26—(AP)—A new 21 year high for wheat futures was established in the grain pits today, but the market had difficult in maintaining extreme advances. The January wheat delivery rose above $2.04.

Corn advanced to the best levels since August 1 on buying stimulated by possibility ceilings will be removed, or at least temporarily suspended, on cattle and and hogs. Oats were under profit-taking throughout most of the session and showed independent weakness.

In cash markets corn was strong as processors bid for the grain in fear of a drying up of supplies in commercial channels if livestock ceilings are abolish. Bid for new crop shipped by October 15 rose to $ .65, up 20 cents a bushel.

Weakness in oats spread to other pits toward the close and final prices were lower. Wheat closed down ⅛ to 1½ cents, January $2.02, corn was off ⅛ to ⅝ cents, January $1.41⅞ to $1.41¾, and oats dropped ⅞ to 1¼ cent, November 80¼ to 80⅜c.

Family Trouble Reaches New High

Mister America and his Missus didn't get along so well in 1945. In fact one family cracked up on the matrimonial rocks for every three marriages. According to the Federal Security Agency's first national report on divorces, 502,000 were granted last year. That's a 25 per cent increase over 1944. Marriages, with a total of 1,618,331, gained only 11.4 per cent.

Cardinals Shut Out By 6 to 0 Score

'Bucky' Walters Held Red Birds To 7 Hits; Game Ahead of 'Bums'

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 26—(AP)—Bucky Walters, sore-armed Cincinnati veteran who hadn't won a game since he beat St. Louis Aug. 17, shut out the League-Leading Cardinals Wednesday night, 6-0 on seven hits, leaving the Red Birds one full game ahead of Brooklyn.

Presented with a golden opportunity to drape the Dodgers over the ropes after their afternoon loss to the Phillies, the Cardinals blew their chance before the mystifying slants of the 36-year-old right hander.

Walters gave Manager Bill McKechnie, "retiring" as Cincy skipper after the game, a neatly-wrapped going away present that was a serious jolt to budding St. Louis world series plans

The Reds hopped on starter Murry Dickson for three runs in the fourth inning and picked up three more unneeded scores in the ninth off reliefers Alpha Brazle and Teddy Wilks in their final Sportsman's Park appearance of the season. Although they won only eight times in 22 season meetings, Cincinnati won six of 11 in the St. Louis Park.

Three Games To Go

With the Dodgers and Cards each having only three games to play, the National League race was assured of going right down to Saturday for decision and there was a strong probability that the winner would not be known until Sunday night, the final day of the season.

While the Brooks are playing off a postponed game with Philadelphia at Ebbets Field tomorrow, the Cards will be idle. They open a final three-game series with Chicago here Friday night, an open date in the Dodgers schedule.

The wily Walters, veteran of two Cincinnati pennant-winning clubs, was in charge of the St. Louis hitters all night although he did allow men on base in all but the second, third and fifth innings.

What started out like a Card hitting party when Red Schoendienst doubled on the first pitch, turned out to be a 10th win in a romp for Bucky, the 190th of his career.

The crowd of 22,557 lifted the season home attendance to 944,335 with three more home dates giving Sam Breadon a chance at his first million paid.

Smith-Cotton's First Game With Kemper

Football season for Smith-Cotton high school opens Friday night at Liberty park when the Kemper Military Academy eleven meets the Tigers. The game time is 8 o'clock.

Coach Ralph "Stub" Dow today said he was picking his probable lineup but would not announce it publicly until Friday afternoon. "I am still having a little trouble in deciding starters in several positions, but after practice this afternoon I'll make my choice."

Kemper has an extreme advantage over the Tigers in one way. They have had a full month's practice and are all ready, while the local aggregation has worked in less than two weeks' practice. Dow in discussing the game, remarked: "The Tigers are not quite ready. But we are going ahead and start the season. I expect to see the Bengals come through on the winning end of the score. But anything can happen."

Dow has depth in each position. In other words he does not have to worry over substitutions as the substitutes will have just as much tight as the probable starters in Friday's game.

Licenses to Hunt and Fish To Advance

Larger Staff to Enforce Laws to Be Demanded

JEFFERSON CITY, Sept. 26—(AP)—General increases in hunting and fishing license prices and reduced creel limits for game fish in 1947 were authorized Wednesday by the day by the Missouri Conversation Commission because "wildlife stocks are now facing the most tremandous rod and gun pressure in history."

E. Sydney Stephens of Columbia, chairman of the commission, said the changes were necessary because the number of outdoor sportsmen has increased at least 50 percent since before the war.

Permit tees were increased, he said, to financ the increasing demand for new fishing lakes, public hunting areas and other major projects. Other factors included the demand for a larger enforcement staff to protect wildlife stocks and the increased cost of operations.

Increase For Permits

Permits for resident fishermen were increased from $1 to $1.50, for resident hunters and trappers from $2 to $2.50 and combination permits from $3 to $4.

Deer hunting permits will be $5 in 1947, instead of $3.

Field reports indicating a large Bobwhite quail population prompted the commission to postpone, for this season at least, any reduction in the bag limit.

In 1947, length limits on all game fish but bass, jack salmon and channel catfish will be removed. Daily and possession limits for game fish were decreased to the following:

Black bass—six daily and 10 in possession; rock bass, white bass, yellow bass and crappie—nine and 15; bluegill and black perch—12 and 20; channel catfish and trout—six and 10. No change was made in jack salmon limits.

The open season on crappie was moved up from May 30 to March 15 to coincide with the season on bluegill and black perch.

Regulations Extended

The special regulations which open Lake of the Ozarks, Lake Wappapello, Lake Taneycomo and other special areas to game fishing on March 15 were extended to all impounded waters in Missouri, including farm ponds. No length limits will be enforced except on black bass and jack salmon.

Gigging, criticised by sportsmen who contend the practice has depleted much of Missouri's game fish stock, received a setback from the commission.

The statewide season was cut to the last three months of the year, trimming September from the open season. The change also will apply to the Current and Black river watersheds were gigging now is permitted from June 15 on.

Other changes included increases in dealers' permits for purchase and sale of certain types of wildlife.

Brown downed Virag in 18:25 to capture the first fall with a bulldog head lock. Virag clamped his pet hold, a full nelson supplex to gain the second decision in 6:30. Brown kept the belt with a body press in 6:13 for the final fall.

Virag momentarily protested the final decision after one of the roughest matches seen here in months.

SPORTS ROUNDUP

By Hugh Fullerton, Jr.

NEW YORK, Sept. 26—(AP)—Des Moines, Iowa, which has harbored many big leaguers in the past, doesn't have a baseball park now, but the 40 and 8 Club expects to have 20,000 fans out to see Bob Feller and his touring team there . . . Here's how: the club "borrowed" Birdland Park from the park board for a day. Then it borrowed several thousand knockdown bleachers from the Iowa State Fair and more from Iowa State College. . . . These will surround the playing field, and a snow fence will be erected tomake it a "park" where tickets can be sold . . . The profits from the venture will be used to build a real ball park in Des Moines.

McKechnie Bows Out of Nat'l League

After Masterminding The Reds to a 6-0 Victory Over the St. Louis Cardinals

By Joe Reichler
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

It is doubtful today if any major league baseball manager ever bowed out with more satisfaction than William B. (Wilkinsburg Bill) McKechnie, erstwhile boss of the Cincinnati Reds.

McKechnie managed his last game for the Reds last night. He was "fired" three days ago. His final act as the Redleg boss was to mastermind his hirelings to a 6-0 victory over the St. Louis Cardinals — an act which might cause the Brooklyn Dodgers—a team Bill admits he dislikes—to nose out the club he formerly managed for the National league flag.

McKechnie knew full well that the Dodgers, who earlier in the season he had accused of "dirty playing" against his Reds, had lost, 11-9, to the Philadelphia Phillies. A St. Louis victory would just about seal Brooklyn's pennant hopes as it would give the Cards a two-game advantage with only 3 games left.

He nominated Bucky Walters, always a tough cookie for the Cards, to pitch. Walters pitched one of the finest games of the season to blank the Birds with seven hits. Twice McKechnie signalled for sacrifices and each time it payed off. In the ninth, even though the Reds owned a 3-0 lead, he ordered Bobby Adams to bunt Ed Lukon to second so that a single would give Cincinnati an insurance run. He ordered Bob Usher, a fast man, to run for Lukon and, sure enough, Bert Haas came through with a single to score Usher.

Brooklyn, showing signs of cracking under the terrific strain of chasing the Cardinals, blew a three-run lead in the ninth when the Phils came up with five runs to win their 11-9 thriller.

Altogether the Dodgers used eight pitchers to set a new league record.

Scoring five runs in the first innings, the Boston Braves deadlocked the Cubs for third place by defeating New York Giants 6-5. The Cubs lost a 16-inning game to Pittsburgh by the same score when Billy Cox singled in Lee Handley. Ralph Kiner took over the National league home run leadership with his 23rd home run.

Bobby Feller fanned 10 to boost his season's strikeout total to 337, only six short of Rube Waddell's listed record. However, Feller, once again received poor hitting support from his mates and dropped a 4-1 decision to Joe Haynes and the Chicago White Sox.

Despite Hank Greenberg's 42nd home run, the Detroit Tigers were beaten by the St. Louis Browns, 8-7, as the Browns' Vern Stephens clouted a homer and two singles. Joe Dobson pitched the American league champion Boston Red Sox to their 103rd victory with a five-hit 5-2 win over the New York Yankees.

The Athletics executed a triple play but lost a doubleheader to Washington 6-3 and 7-4 with Roger Wolfe and Dutch Leonard receiving credit for the victories.

Jalbert peer up six-foot-long kytoon floating 3000 feet in air before setting off monorail trolley and assorted paraphernalia. Wind-filled parachute is off with rush as it propels trolley up toward kytoon. A grinning Jalbert unhooks 20-pounder and exhibits four others. Kytoon is being used at Martha's Vineyard for first time. Parachute catches wind and is off until stopped by tripper some 2000 feet out. Tripper drops bait, line and float. Monorail trolley and parachute slide back down line to caster. Kytoon lends distance, gets more fish.

Stronger Body Helps This New Tire
OUTWEAR PREWAR TIRES
See Us for this Extra-Safe, Extra-Trouble-Free, Extra-Mileage Tire

No sensible driver would deliberately run his tires over a rock like the one in the picture. But sometimes it can't be helped . . . and that's when you will be glad if you have new B.F.Goodrich passenger car tires. Built with more and stronger cords, the tire body is better engineered and 35% stronger than in wartime tires. This extra strength was needed to carry the wider, flatter tread. But in building this stronger body to hold the more durable tread, B.F.Goodrich engineers built into it greater resistance to "road shock."

Of course, supplies of tires are still limited. In spite of greatly increased production, demand is even greater. This is especially true of the B.F.Goodrich tire that OUTWEARS PREWAR TIRES. Please check your needs well in advance. Talk to us. We'll do our best to keep your car rolling until we can get new tires for you.

No Single Season for Scarcity of Meat

By James Marlow

WASHINGTON, Sept. 26— —Why is meat scarce. There's no single, clear-cut answer. It's a jumble of arguments. The truth lies somewhere among them.

Here are the main arguments:

1. Farmers have plenty of cattle but are holding them back until OPA allows better prices or until price ceilings are knocked off entirely.

2. Farmers are not holding back. They're fattening up their cattle to make better beef. They won't be ready for market for weeks.

But, no matter what the arguments, the ranges are loaded with cattle.

This Much is True:

Last summer—between the time congress let OPA and meat ceilings die and the time it revived OPA and the ceilings—a record number of cattle reached the market.

Since there were no ceilings in that period, cattle-growers could charge any price for their meat they could get. Prices went up.

The prediction was made at the time that the record summer-run of cattle would mean less mea in the autumn. The reason:

The cattle — which otherwise would have beeh sent to marke through July, August, September October — were rushed to market in that July-August period of no ceilings and good profits.

How did price ceilings off back on cattle?

Price Controls Died

When congress let OPA die June 30, all price controls died. Finally after wrangling through July, congress set OPA up again.

In the new law it created a three-man decontrol board. It was the board's job to decide when and where ceilings should be removed or restored.

The law said meat ceilings should be restored unless the decontro board said "No." The board did not say "No." So ceilings came back on meat. All were back by Sept. 10.

How did price ceilings get back moved if the government decides that's what is necessary to get the farmers to send their cattle to market?

There Are Two Ways:

1. OPA can do it if the agriculture department, which is boss over livestock approves.

2. A fairly long, roundabout way, which goes like this:

Representatives of the meat industry—called an industry advisory committee—will have to ask Secretary of Agriculture Clinton P. Anderson to remove meat ceilings.

They haven't done so yet, but are expected to. If they asked him today, he'd have until Oct. 10 or 15 days, in which to do it or not do it He could act, of course, sooner than 15 days.

If he thought ceilings should come off meat — and provided the decontrol board agreed with him—he could tell OPA to remove the ceilings.

If he turned down the meat people, they could ask him to rehear their request. He'd have to do this within 10 days.

Then, after this second hearing, he'd have 15 days in which to decide once more whether to remove the ceilings.

If Anderson again said "No," the meat people would have 30 days in which to appeal to the decontrol board.

If the board decided Anderson was wrong and the ceilings should be removed, it could order OPA to remove them.

Smithton Club Has Election

The September meeting of the Smithton Friendly Homemakers club was held at the home of Mrs. Olen Monsees with Mrs. Elroy Lemke, assisting hostess.

Thirteen members and one guest were present.

The meeting was presided over by the president, Mrs. Hubert Finley.

Mrs. Homer Homan gave a report by the Achievement Day committee.

The nominating committee submitted the following list of officers for election for the coming year: Mrs. Hubert Finley, president; Mrs. Harry Pace, vice president; Mrs. Homer Homan, secretary; Mrs. Phillips Imhouser, treasurer; Mrs. Harry Henderson, reporter; Mrs. Walter Baxter, game leader; Mrs. William Green, song leader; Mrs. Olen Monsees, devotional leader; Mrs. Raymond Kahrs, 4-H sponsor; Mrs. George Griffen, reading; Mrs. Charles Bluhm and Mrs. Paul Selken, damatics and Mrs. Robert Griffen, children development.

Mrs. William Green brought the scrap book she had prepared for the year.

Mrs. Homer Homan was in charge of the games during the social hour after which refreshments weree served by the hostess.

Presbyterian Rally-Supper Friday

Broadway Presbyterians will hold their annual Sunday school rally supper Friday, 6:30 p. m. in the church dining rooms. Members will sit at class tables, decorated for the occasion. Rev. L. A. Swan, who will give a brief rally talk, will be chairman of a committee to judge the tables and announce the winners. A brief musical program has been arranged. Everyone will bring a covered dish. Clyde Heynen is general superintendent of the Sunday school.

Stuck with stale bread? It can be "revived" to taste almost as delicious as freshly baked bread. Put it in a paper bag. Springle the bread lightly with warm water, if very stale, and close bag tightly. Place in a 350 degree oven for 10 to 15 minutes.

Onions for flavor! The most important reason for eating onions is their flavor-appeal. However, they are fair sources of vitamin C, especially when eaten raw. They also contain small amounts of the B complex vitamins, calcium and iron.

Smithton Hi Classes Elect

The individual classes of the Smithton high school elected officers for the coming year, last Monday. They are: Seniors, president Zeb Thomas; vice-president Charles Bolte; secretary, Betty Hume; treasurer, JoAnn Daniels; reporter, Muriel Gieschen. The sponsor is Mrs. E. E. Baum.

Smithton PTA Entertains

The Smithton school PTA honored the school faculty, school board members and their wives, and the school bus drivers and their wives, at a seven o'clock banquet Friday evening, Sept. 20, in the dining room of the Smithton Methodist church. Also invited were Rev. and Mrs. E. F. Dillon.

The dining room and tables were decorated with baskets and bowls of cut flowers and lighted candles After the banquet a short business meeting was held in which Mrs. George Griffith, vice president of the PTA presided, as the president Mrs. Roy Gwinn, resigned recently when they moved to Sedalia. Mrs. Raymond Kahrs was elected to fill the vacancy left by Mrs Gwinn.

Mrs. Wm. Lamm had charge of the program and Mrs. Olen Monsees of music. A trio, composed of Mrs. Monsees, Mrs. Shelby Kahrs and Mrs. Sheldon Smith sang several numbers. David Mahnken also sang several selections and led the group singing.

The Rev. Dillon spoke in behalf of the PTA and welcomed the guests, commending them for the outstanding work they are doing for the education of the young people of the community. Supt. B. B. Ihrig gave the response and introduced the honored guests. Approximately forty-five attended.

Brightening meals with fall produce

Now is the time to brush up on your new hot-dish recipes using fall vegetables. This beet soup may serve as an all-in-one meal.

RUSSIAN BORSCH

- 2 lbs. cubed beef stew meat
- 2½ tsps. salt
- ½ tsp. allspice
- 4 cups coarsely grated raw beets
- ¼ cup lemon juice
- ½ cup finely diced green pepper
- 1 cup finely diced onion
- 2 cups thinly sliced celery
- 2 cups diced fresh tomatoes
- 3 cups finely shredded cabbage

Simmer meat, salt, and allspice in water to cover 3 hours. Strain; measure liquid, adding enough water to make 4 cups broth. Combine grated beets and lemon juice. Cook green pepper, onion, celery, and tomatoes slowly 15 minutes; add cabbage and beets. Cook 15 minutes longer. Add vegetables to broth; heat to boiling. Serve with spoonful whipped or plain sour cream floated on surface. Sprinkle with parsley. Serves 6, allowing 1 cup per serving.

When you have leftover squash, dress it up and serve again in a new way.

SQUASH PUFF

- 2 cups squash pulp
- 1 tbsp. melted shortening
- 1 tsp. salt
- ¼ tsp. pepper
- ½ tsp. cinnamon
- ½ tsp. sugar
- 1 egg

Mix squash pulp, melted shortening, salt, pepper, cinnamon, sugar, and slightly beaten egg. Bake in well-greased muffin tins in hot oven (450° F.) 20 to 25 minutes.

The Daily Washington Merry-Go-Round

WASHINGTON, Sept. 26—With the public engrossed with cabinet flare-ups and the Russian imbroglio, a lot of juicy plums may go to certain business firms who know the ropes in Washington.

Though little publicized juiciest plums in government repose in the office of the alien property custodian, supposed to protect priceless German property for the taxpayers. One lush company is I. G. Chemie, the Swiss-Nazi firm seized by the United States during the war.

Remington Rand is now angling to get I. G. Chemie. They have hired the son-in-law of Statesmanlike Senator Barkley of Kentucky, Max Truitt, and have done a lot of backstage lobbying. They have even talked to Senator Mead of New York, former chairman of the Mead investigating committee, to ascertain whether the deal would be investigated—if made.

This column will endeavor to report on what finally happens.

Condoning Black Markets

Last spring Republican Senator Wherry of Nebraska and other congressmen out to kill the OPA, howled their heads off that OPA was ignoring the black market. Today, as OPA agents are trying to clean up the black market, those very same congressmen and senators are complaining that senators are complaining that congressmen actually want to have the OPA call off its agents. . . . Senator Claude Pepper's vigorous attack on President Truman as having flouted Roosevelt ideals was mild compared to what Truman said privately about Pepper. His remarks, largely unprintable, reached Pepper's ears and probably helped sour him on the White House. . . . The president doesn't seem to realize that he can't sound off against senators one day and then get their cooperation the next. . . . The civil service commission has launched a secret probe as to why West Point - Annapolis applicants get higher marks when they take examinations in Washington. The commission is also anxious to find out why such a high proportion of the lucky applicants who take their exams in the nation's capital are sons of high army-navy officers.

Anti-Lynching Commission

President Truman is considering the appointment of a new White House commission to make a complete review of lynchings. This was discussed at a recent conference between the president, Walter White of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, and James B. Carey of the CIO United Electrical Workers.

The two men told Truman about several atrocities against Negroes, one of them the case of Isaac Woodward of New York City, a young war veteran whose eyes were gouged out by a policeman near Aiken, S. C.

Woodward was turned over to the police after an argument with a bus driver, who upbraided him for spending too much time in a bus depot washroom. The vet, who served three years in the army, including 15 months in the South Pacific, had been discharged in Atlanta, Ga., three hours before the incident and was on his way home to New York.

Carey and White reported that Woodward has been held in a South Carolina veterans' hospital ever since the incident and no one has been allowed to talk to him .

"I am familiar with some of these cases," Truman observed, "but didn't realize this brutality was so widespread. I am shocked and horrified by your report."

He added that he realized the lynching problem had not been "adequately dealt with by the federal government," largely because the federal government is still hampered by state legal barriers.

Truman himself proposed the idea of a presidential "emergency" commission, similar to the Roberts Pearl Harbor board, with authority to investigate lynchings and assaults, review "shortcomings" in the present law and make recommendations for legislation to better safeguard civil liberties. He said that he would be glad to initiate such legislation.

From the Diplomatic Pouch

There's been some eyebrow lifting in the state department over the way U. S. Ambassador George Messersmith has been hobnobbing with the Fascist Peron government. Messersmith has even made several talks to Peron's followers to the effect that Argentina will be considered a worthy ally when the "probable war between United States and Russia" breaks out. . . . Assistant Secretary of State Spruille Braden not only raised his eyebrows but is sore. Messersmith's transfer may be demanded when Byrnes returns from Paris. .. . General Eisenhower has been asked to send specially trained military police to Manila to break up the thievery in army and civilian post offices. Fifteen per cent of all packages and even letters to GIs in Manila are opened and looted. From five to seven million dollars' worth of army equipment is stolen in the Philippines each month—with about ten jeeps disappearing every day. . . . Members of the house military affairs committee, just returned from U. S. Pacific bases, say military equipment is going to pot, that the most modern equipment is not being installed, that morale among the men is low. They blame themselves as much as the army.

Atomic Lilienthal

David Lilienthal is No. 1 choice to head the powerful atomic energy committee. Able lame-duck Bob LaFollette of Wisconsin will also be appointed either to the atomic commission or replace Lilienthal as head of TVA. . . Henry Morgenthau was all set to take over all of Henry Wallace's cancelled foreign policy speaking engagements when Wallace was had not yet resigned. Morgenthau and Wallace see eye-to-eye on foreign policy; also on Jimmy Byrnes. . . . Trumanites are worried over intimations that Wallace will reveal certain highly secret things that transpired inside the cabinet regarding foreign policy. . . . President Truman has abandoned his search for a government post for his old friend, Senator Wheeler of Montana. Wheeler will practice law in Montana and Washington, doesn't want a government job. Several railroads are eager to hire their one-time severest critic.

Far Eastern Report

Here's what members of the house military affairs committee reported to General Eisenhower, following their return from an inspection of our military bases in the Far East:

1. Morale of our Far East occupational troops is being endangered by the army's delay in sending wives and families to officers and enlisted men.

2. The army is doing little to set up facilities for the proper housing of army wives and children who want to join the troops, Eisenhower was informed. On Okinawa, for instance, surplus army stoves and plumbing supplies—badly needed in Quonset huts where army families will be housed—have been sold to the Chinese.

3. Another demoralizing factor is the shortage of cigarettes and fresh fruit and vegetables.

Eisenhower promised to look into these facts immediately.

In legal phraseology an act of God is an overwhelming natural event, such as a storm or an earthquake, which no human being could be reasonably expected to forsee or prevent.

Five coastal New Jersey counties waged a 10-year war on mosquitos. It was successful and real estate values rose $100,000,000.

Rhinestones are artificial colorless gems of high luster cut to imitate diamonds.

In Tibit goiters are so general that women who do not have them are referred to contemptuously as "little necks."

A colored fluid has been developed for use with contact lenses as a replacement for external sun glasses.

Last year 2,500,000 beds were provided by the Salvation Army for needy men, women and children in the United States.

DEVIL'S LAUGHTER

By Alice M. Laverick

XXIII

THERE was an interval, then, for several weeks of something almost like peace at Innisfail. By some miracle, Father Gene had managed to inspire Colin to write some of his adventures and this kept him busy and fairly interested so that he rarely drank to excess.

Had it not been for the constant worry over poor Miss Charlotte, whose mind continued to remain blank, and who continued to shun all of us except Ellen, we might have been content.

Once in a while, to be sure, Colin grew restless. It was not his nature to remain static for any length of time.

One afternoon he opened the piano that had long been silent. Even Father Gene had not played it since Mrs. Fitzgerald's death, though now and then he had persuaded Mark to a game of chess with him. But this afternoon Colin came into the living room and I saw at once from my corner in the library, where I was curled up with "Wuthering Heights," that he had been drinking.

Lacking any other audience, he called me out of the library and got Ellen to come in from the kitchen, also, and he played for us. All kinds of songs in all different languages he played and sang, and attempted to teach them to Ellen and me, with very little success, though we tried to humor him. And suddenly, inspired by some little German lullaby that he claimed had the most beautiful waltz rhythm of anything ever written, he seized me in his arms and began to dance. Around and around the room we whirled until, just as suddenly, his mood changed and he stopped and let me go. Perhaps he was remembering, as was I, that day when he had waltzed with Miss Charlotte and she had fainted in his arms.

Without a word, then, to Ellen or me, he left us, left the house, in fact, and did not return for dinner. Towards morning of that same night, Ellen heard him at the door and went down and let him in, and he spent the night in the library staring into the fire.

And though I knew he had hardly been aware that he was dancing with me that afternoon, that he had probably forgotten already that he had done so, I could still feel the thrill of his arms around me, of his dark face close to mine.

And the next day, which was my eighteenth birthday, there was a crisis at Innisfail.

Colin, suddenly getting a notion that not enough was being done for Charlotte and that what she needed was a little gay conversation, took it upon himself to force her door and try to talk to her. With the result that she became violently hysterical, the doctor was sent for in haste and Mark, once more enraged at his brother, ordered him again to leave the house.

And this time Colin went.

Nor did he return for five years.

* * *

I SUPPOSE during the next five years no one at Innisfail changed a great deal except myself. Unhappily, there was no change at all in Miss Charlotte, and Ellen seemed much the same as she had always been since I'd known her. And but for becoming a little grayer, a little thinner and even more silent, Mark was, as ever, the reserved, slightly haughty professor. A cold, unemotional man you might have thought, looking at him.

Yet occasionally of an evening while I was training at Saint Gregory's Hospital, after graduating from high school, I would come upon Mark in the little chapel that stood between the hospital and the Academy. And even in the half-shadows in the flickering candle-light, I was struck at such times by a look on his face that I had never seen there before, that I had never expected to see on the face of any Fitzgerald. Surely, and amazingly, a look of humility. I always left at once, feeling guilty, somehow, at having glimpsed the naked depths of Mark Fitzgerald's soul. And I came to have an intense pity for him.

He was a sad and lonely man, no longer arrogant at heart, whatever he seemed on the surface.

He continued to have the best of the medical and brain specialists for Charlotte but they could hold out little in the way of hope for him. And Charlotte still remained shut away in her own room whenever either Mark or I were about.

Now and then, when she and Ellen were alone at Innisfail, Charlotte would come out of her room and walk slowly through the house, gazing silently all around. Sometimes she would stand for a long time simply staring up the front stairs, Ellen told us, but she never used them. She always came from her room by way of the back stairs and returned the same way.

"She's still the beauty," Ellen would say sadly. "Only for the queer look of her eyes, Celia, you'd not see a lovelier face. Ah, it's a great pity."

It was, indeed, a great pity, a tragedy, that no one could see and admire that beauty, that the mind behind it should still remain blank and empty.

Change in the Thinking of Soviet Leadership

By Glenn Babb
AP Foreign News Analyst

Joseph Stalin last Feb. 5 told his people that capitalism breeds wars and announced inauguration of a new five-year plan to insure "our country . . . against any eventuality." A few days later he called on the Red army to "make the borders of our motherland impregnable against enemies." Abroad and at home these statements were interpreted as meaning that the Russian leader did not believe that the two worlds of capitalism and Communism could exist together in peace and that he was calling on his people to gird for the inevitable conflict.

It appears that in the last seven months there has been a change in the thinking of Soviet leadership. At least it would appear that Stalin has found it desirable to modify somewhat the average Soviet citizen's picture of the non-Russian world.

New Line of Thought

For yesterday (Tuesday) in a startling statement as widely publicized in Russia as outside Stalin declared that he believed unconditionally "in the possibility of a friendly and lasting collaboration of the Soviet Union and western democracy despite the existence of ideological discord and in the friendly competition between the two systems." "Communism in one country"—as opposed to the former Soviet thesis of world revolution — "is fully possible, especially in such a country as the Soviet Union," Stalin continued. Even with Russia advancing further toward Communism possibilities for peaceful collaboration with the outside world need not decrease "but can even increase," he declared.

With this new line of thought the Soviet premier coupled a profession of confidence that no new war is in the making and remarks calculated to ease the anxieties of his own people concerning the atomic bomb. Dispatches from Moscow report that these had a reassuring effect on the Russian public, which appears to have been more worried about the prospect of standing against a hostile encirclement than was realized outside it seems obvious that Stalin's remarks were addressed to his own people as much as to outside world.

Objective Obscure

Just what psychological objective he was driving at remains obscure. But Russians doubtless were glad to be assured that the United States' monopoly of the atomic bomb can not last long, which the Americans themselves have admitted from the first. And non-Russians may find still greater reassurance in Stalin's flat statement that "use of the atomic bomb will be prohibited." Does that mean that Moscow is ready to meet the United States and other nations halfway in the search for a covenant to outlaw the dread weapon?

The Stalin statement will be studied anxiously and intensively around the world for guidance as to the real direction of Moscow's policy. Has there been a change of heart in the Kremlin? Are its leaders abjuring the concept of a Soviet Union encircled by potential enemies living according to a system with which Communism can not compromise? Are they now ready to admit the possibility of the two great divisions of mankdin living together in reasonable peace and harmony? If so, the outlook for the world turns brighter.

However, one theme outstanding in the flurry of reaction already recorded is watch Stalin's deeds, not words His statement nearly coincided with an American note charging Moscow with failing to fulfill its Yalta promises to give the former enemy satellites a lift toward recovery. Although Stalin reaffirmed the Potsdam agreement as the bond between Russia and America, the American position still is that many of the Potsdam pledges, especially those of democracy and fundamental liberties to the peoples of eastern Europe, remain unfulfilled.

Daylight Saving Ends In Six States Sunday

By The Associated Press

Dayiight saving time—the annual summertime bugaboo of radio networks, railroads and airlines—ends officially at 2 a. m. Sunday in six states and portions of 19 others that adopted it last April 28.

Twenty-three states which remained on standard time will not be affected by the set-back of the clocks.

Only in portions of one county—Aroostock, in Maine—will daylight saving time be retained temporarily. The extra hour of sunlight there will be used to aid the potato harvest.

Radio networks, railroads and airlines have said they will return to normal schedules Sunday, dropping all innovations such as rebroadcasts and rescheduling necessitated by the summer time change.

Minnie the Mouser:

Kicking the Mice Around Beat a Path to Her Door

By NEA Service

BAYONNE, N. J.— (NEA —) Sometimes cats get their names in the papers because an eccentric old party has died and left them a lot of money.

Not Minnie.

Minnie get her name in the papers because when she died the other day at the ripe-old-cat-age of 13 years she left something to another cat.

What she left was a job.

Now Minnie may have had a heart as big as a whale for she loved kittens and mothered more than 100 of them in her time. But she was no moocher.

She earned her living kicking the mice around.

Minnie was carried on the payroll of the Standard Oil Development Co. laboratories here as Minnie Esso, which is a nice little touch of press agentry, indeed, but a well-deserved handle just the same.

Frank Hatch, head janitor at the laboratory, found Minnie on the premises in 1933, a mouser without portfolio. Because she was a better mouser than he had seen before, he beat a path to her door with milk and salmon to make sure she wouldn't leave.

Eventually a sharp-eyed auditor discovered an item charged to "Minnie" was showing up on the books every month. He found it was for the milk and salmon. There was a hurried conference of directors, after which a press agent dashed out to tell the world that Minnie the Mouser was a cat on a payroll.

In those days, Minnie got $3.30 a month. She had been raised to $4.40 before she died.

Minnie taught her 100 offspring all the tricks of the mousing trade, and their services are in great demand.

It is one of Minnie's son, as matter of fact, who has taken her place on the payroll here.

And in the cat circles of this town, it is said that Timmie, son of Minnie, remembers to lay a mouse on the neat little grave in back of the laboratory in tribute to Minnie, who was here and had to go, kicking the mice around.

Beneficiary: This is Timmie, son of Minnie. He inherited her $4.40 a month job.

Strike Is Still On At Pittsburgh

Motormen Are Returning To Their Jobs—Drop Contempt Charge

PITTSBURGH Sept. 27—(Friday)—(AP)—About 2800 streetcar motormen, who had walked out in a "protective" strike 24 hours before, were ordered back on this job this mornin by their union leaders, easing the effects of a crippling power strike now entering its fourth day.

Fifty-six trolley cars were put into operation immediately and today's schedule called for 50 percent of normal service—about 225 cars. This was about the same "limited" service which the Pittsburgh railways had been giving here since the start of the power strike.

It was announced at the same time that limited bus service would be maintained by the Pittsburgh Motor Coach Co., which had failed to operate most of yesterday.

PITTSBURGH, Sept. 26—(AP)—This industrial city's crippling power strike was still on tonight, its effects sharpened by a shutdown of the street railway system, despite dissolution of an anti-strike injunction which had been a major obstacle in the path of settlement.

Initial efforts to find a mutual understanding in the power dispute failed late this afternoon when a two and one half hour conference between official of the Duquesne Light Company and an independent union of employes eded with no agreement. A union spokesman said, however, the conference would be resumed, probably tomorrow.

Meantime, a virtual "holiday" prevailed in business and industry. Many thousands of workers continued in idleness through the third day.

The trolleys which carry a million riders daily normally, were halted by order of the AFL-amalgamated association of street and electric railway workers. Business Agent John T. Morgan said it was a "protective measure" for 3,500 Pittsburgh railways employes. Morgan said threats had been received against continued operation of the trolleys with "struck power."

Absolved Of Contempt

George Muller, president of the power workers, was absolved with nine other strike committee members of contempt of court charges at the same time the anti-strike injunction was dissolved at the city's request. Mueller had been sentenced Tuesday to a year in jail on the contempt charge, brought for his criticism of the injunction as "a scrap of paper."

The union leader declared the strike of the 3,500 light company workers would continue until negotiations with the company are concluded to the union's satisfaction.

Last night the union membership rejected by a overwhelming vote a proposal from the management which contained a five percent wage increase and revision of the pension and vacation plans amog other adjustments.

The union seeks a 20 percent increase. This, the union said, would boost the present average base pay from $1.18 to about $1.41 hourly.

Helping Power Workers

National and city labor leaders were rallying to the support of the power workers in their fight against an anti-strike injunction handed down by the Allegheny Common Pleas court. Leaders of CIO and AFL organizations in Pittsburgh with approximately 375,000 members called special protest meetings.

Normally the railways company serves about 1,000,000 riders daily with 950 cars. However, since the start of the power strike the number of cars has been reduced to 225 as a measure to conserve electricity.

More than 2,100 union members voted better than four to one against considering any company offer to end the three-day-old strike until the injunction is lifted.

Over 36,500 Idle

The power strike had more than 36,500 idle—3,500 workers of the struck Duquesne Light Co., 8,000 sympathy strikers at the Jones and Laughlin Steel Corp. and the Westinghouse Electric Corp., and over 25,000 others in scattered mills, mines, offices and shops.

In a dramtic development, union president George L. Mueller, who on Tuesday had been given a year in jail for contempt of court, came before a three-man banc of the Allegheny county court, apologized for having called the court's temporary anti-strike injunction "just a scrap of paper," and was given his freedom for a few hours to attend a meeting of the union.

Mueller promised the court he would ask the 3,200 members of the independent association of employes of the Duquesne Light company to accept a new company offer, end their strike and return to work. The new offer, the company said, included a five per cent pay raise, which would have increased the average base pay from $1.18 to $1.24 an hour. The union demands 20 per cent,

Hold Youth As Kidnap Suspect

DENVER, Sept. 26—(AP)—The FBI reported today that a 19-year-old youth identified as Ronald Bower had been apprehended in connection with the alleged kidnapping last week of Mrs. Anna Field, 39, of Ionia, Kas.

R. P. Kramer, FBI special agent in charge here, said Bower will be charged with kidnapping along with two Scott Field, Ill., soldiers who were arrested Saturday at Colorado Springs, Colo.

The other two youths who identified themselves as Myles E. Townsend, 17, and Sherman L. Witt, 18, were accused of commandering Mrs. Field's automobile after she had given them a ride in Kansas and forcing her to accompany them to Colorado Springs.

They were arraigned before Judge Paul Crocker yesterday and ordered held for trial under bond of $2,500 each.

Six Persons Are Killed in Train Wreck

Transcontinental Train From Chicago Piles Up On Curve

By Franklin Arthur

VICTORVILLE, Calif., Sept. 26—(AP)—Six persons—three women and two men passengers and a Negro porter—were killed and between 50 and 75 injured today when Union Pacific train No. 3, the Transcantinental Limited, piled up on a curve two and a half miles of Victorville as it was running an hour late.

All the dead were in two day coaches immediately behind a baggage car. The three women victims were in a dressing room. The porter apparently was standing just outside the dressing room.

It took more than three hours to extricate the bodies from the wreckage of the lightweight steel cars. Deputy Coroner Edward P. Doyle said he was not positive no more bodies would be found in the crumpled coaches.

These two cars were piled up in a narrow cut approaching the Majave river and telescoped into its sides. Another day coach and two dining cars left the rails but did not overturn. None of the passengers in the following pullman cars was injured.

To Question Engineer

Doyle said the train left the track at 7:03 a. m., on a slight curve, possibly because of high speed. He said that Engineer Pearl S. Parker of Los Angeles would be questioned at an inquest about the rate of speed.

Parker escaped without serious injuries, but his fireman, R. J. Zetalmaier, Monetrey Park, Calif., was badly injured.

Just beyond where the locomotive came to rest is a sheer drop of 40 to 50 feet to the bed of the Mojave river. The double tracks at that point run through the desert with high, rocky hills on one side.

Some injured were carried 300 yards to the highway on stretchers and taken in ambulances to the nearby Victorville army airport and flown in army ambulance planes to Los Angeles hospitals. Others were brought to Victorville on flat cars and taken to hospitals in ambulances.

Ask Farmers To Sell Old Plow-Shares

WASHINGTON, Sept. 26—(AP)—An appeal to farmers to turn their old plowshares and other obsolete equipment into steel scrap went out today from Civilian Production Administrator John D. Small.

Unless thousands of tons of old machinery and other scrap is collected from the nation's farms, Small said the present high rate of steel production may drop.

Some 16,000 farm implement and equipment dealers also are aiding, Small said, and dealers have been asked to collect scrap in areas where there are no scrap dealers.

Polio Fatal To Child

FRANKLIN, Mo., Sept. 26—(AP)—Joyce Gibson, four-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harley Gibson, of Franklin, died of polio late today at her home here, her physician reported.

She had been ill since Tuesday. Her death marked Howard county's first case of the disease. Neighboring Cooper county has had 13 cases with one fatality.

Taxable Net Estate Of F. D. Roosevelt

Totals $1.085.486 Subject To New York Taxation

POUGHKEEPSIE, N. Y., Sept. 26—(AP)—President Franklin D. Roosevelt's net estate, subject to New York state taxation, amounts to $1,085,486.80, a tax return filed today showed.

The late President's gross estate, before deductions for funeral expenses, debts and other costs totaling $736.400.90, was $1,821,877.70, the tax return filed with the Dutchess County Surrogate by Henry Hackett, attorney and executor, showed.

Hackett said the total estate also included $119,111.50 which was not subject to New York taxation, making a total gross estate of $1,940,999.

Federal taxes have been paid and tax returns also have been filed in Georgia, the District of Columbia, Canada and the Province of New Brunswick, Hackett said.

Deductions before taxation in New York included $59,804 for charitable and public bequests—among them the Hyde Park residence conveyed to the government and certain personal effects at the Franklin D. Roosevelt library at Hyde Park.

Funeral and administrative expenses, including executors' commissions and legal costs, were listed at $209,516.

Commissions to the executors, James Roosevelt, Basil O'Connor and Hackett, were $99,494. Attorney fees were estimated at $75,000. Cost of a monument at Hyde Park was $6,245.

Hackett did not disclose the amount of federal taxes paid, but said a tentative estimate of state taxes was $46,000.

At the time of Mr. Roosevelt's death $2,500 was due to him on his salary as President.

He held $76,150 in government securities, including U. S. treasury bonds, tax savings certificates and war bonds.

Iowa Tops On Farm Income

WASHINGTON, Sept. 26—(AP)—Iowa topped the nation in farm income for the first six months of this year, the agriculture department reported today.

In the nation as a whole farm income amounted to $.726,351,000, a decrease from $8,899,690,000 in comparison wit hthe corresponding six months of 1945.

Iowa contributed $742,655,000 to the national total, or about $2,000,-000 more than its closest rival, California, with 740,882,000, and $33,049,000 more than Iowa's total for the first half of 1945.

Receipts in the west north central states—the nation's wealthiest farm area, in which Iowa is located—climbed slightly despite the national decrease. Total farm income in the area was $2,525,174,-000 compared with $2,438,090,000 in the corresponding six months of 1945.

Cash receipts of farm income for the first six months of 1946 compared with the corresponding period of 1945, as reported by the agriculture department for other states included:

Violence In Movieland

Some Top Stars Pass Through The Picket Lines

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 26—A strike punctuated by flurries of violence and several arrests broke out at Hollywood's major film lots today as the AFL Conference of Studio Unions threw out picket lines in its jurisdictional dispute with the rival Internatonal Alliance of Theatrical Stage Employes.

Production was suspended for several hours at Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer and Warner Brothers, chief targets of the dispute, but later was resumed on a curtailed basis. Work at most of the other studios was reported seriously handicapped.

Some of the top stars passed through the picket lines and reported for work. Among those observed entering M-G-M were Red Skelton, Greer Garson, Mickey Rooney, Gloria DeHaven, Marie McDonald and Esther Williams. Warners said it was continuing work on seven pictures, with "big name" players on the sets.

Meanwhile, counsel for Warner Bros. studios petitioned superior court for a permanent injunction against violent picketing. The action was directed against the Conference of Studio Unions, Herbert K. Sorrell, the painters,' carpenters', machinists,' electrical workers,' set designers' and cartoonists' union, and many John Does.

At Warner Brothers some workmen reported for work via a huge storm drain leading from the nearby Los Angeles river. When the strikers learned of this they threw a picket line across the mouth of the conduit.

Herbert Sorrell, chief of the CSU, termed Warners and M-G-M the "worst anti-union studios." He said many craftsmen affiliated with the IATSE, also an AFL group, were refusing to pass the lines.

"This is for keeps," he commented.

Sluggings At Gates

Several sluggings were reported at studio gates, and in at least three instances arrests were made. One man was seized for slashing an automobile tire, another for ripping out a car's ignition wires, and still another for hurling dirt into a car.

Columbia, Paramount, 20th Century-Fox and R-K-O, were reported still operating, although in some instances on a restricted basis.

The strike, regarded as a recurrence of the intermittent strife which went on for 34 weeks last year, stems chiefly from jurisdictional dispute between the CSU and the International Alliance of Theatrical Stage Employes, both AFL unions.

The CSU has accused the producers of stalling on contracts with its members unions, to make effective an interim agreement entered into last July, granting them a 25 percent increase.

Sorrell, a portable amplifer strapped to his back, mingled with the pickets at Warners. Speaking of the interim agreement, he shouted:

"To hell with a 25 percent increase. Let's get a good one."

An industry representative asserted the producers are willing to "negotiate at any time" with the unions on the new contract, and said the absence from the city of Sorrell had been a factor in the delay.

Proceed With Plans for Bonus March

Veterans to Leave Springfield Friday, Coming Sedalia Way

SPRINGFIELD, Mo., Sept. 26—(AP)—Springfield's bonus-marching war veterans, scheduled to leave Friday night for Jefferson City, will stay in the state capital until they "get an answer, one way or the other," ex-Marine Murl E. Owen, one of the leaders of the march, said today.

"This will be a peaceful demonstration to show Governor Donnelly that there are thousands of veterans who think there should be a bonus," Owen explained. "We'll stay until we get an answer—yea or nay."

Previously, Owen had declared that the bonus marchers would "camp on the governor's doorstep" until a $400 bonus was granted to each of the state's war veterans — which presumably would mean they would stay until Governor Donnelly called the state legislature into special session.

The veterans proceeded with plans for the march despite a warning from Springfield's mayor Harry B. Carr that they are "going about this thing in the wrong way."

Coming Through Sedalia

"You are interested in a bonus," he said, "and you have every right to be. But this isn't the right way to go about it. The American way is to work this thing out through the legislature."

Owen and Sgt. Gale Zenner, who is in charge of the Marine corps recruiting office here, visited the mayor yesterday and asked that he declare Saturday a holiday so that more veterans could go to Jefferson City.

The mayor flatly refused, explaining that he has "no legal or moral authority to declare such a holiday."

Veterans are scheduled to assemble on the public square here at 8 o'clock Friday night, then travel to Jefferson City "in anything that will roll" via highway 65 to Sedalia and highway 50 from Sedalia to Jefferson City.

Owen said he expects 15,000 veterans from Springfield and the Ozarks to take part in the march.

TRENTON, Mo., Sept. 26—(AP)—A state bonus for veterans of World War II was favored last night in a resolution adopted by the Major Dale Stepp post of the American Legion.

Officers of the post said they believed the action made it the first post in Missouri to publicly announce opposition to the anti-bonus resolution passed at the state Legion convention in Kansas City early this month.

Among those present at the meeting were Earl Barnes, Chillicothe, district commander and his adjutant, Ed Allen.

'Gag Rule' On Peace Parley

By LOUIS NEVIN

PARIS, Sept. 26—(AP)—The 21-nation European peace conference voted without discussion at a special general session tonight to impose a "gag rule" on itself in order to speed to completion by Oct. 15 its task or writing the peace treaties.

The session was enlivened by a turbulent 15 minutes at the outset when U. S. Secretary of State Byrnes, as chairman, announced that Greece had withdrawn her demands that northern Epirus be transferred from Albania to Greece.

That development came after another day of commission meetings highlighted by bitter comment from Deputy Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Vishinsky directed at the United States charging that "while our blood was flowing you were making profits."

Vishinsky, in reply to an American statement on Tuesday regarding Romanian reparations payments to Russia, also threw in the cryptic remark that he did not known the exact cost of atom bombs because "I don't manufacture them and I don't use them."

The conference delegates approved unanimously the plan of the "Big Four" foreign ministers to limit debate in commission meetings. The conference secretary general was directed to supervise execution of the plan.

Will Speed Up On Discharges

To Advance The Release For About 300,000 Men

WASHINGTON, Sept. 26—(AP)—The army ordered today that the discharge of a "substantial" proportion of an estimated 300,000 enlisted men be advanced up to six months.

"Certain categories" of non-regular army enlisted men stationed in the United States, who are within six months of attaining eligibility for discharge under existing regulations, are to be released if they can be spared.

Those arriving from overseas who are within six months of becoming eligible for release "will be immediately processed for separation."

Further the war department directed that men serving in either the United States or overseas who are within six months of release and present evidence of acceptance as college or university students will be discharged "with as little delay as possible."

Non-volunteers now must serve 18 months so that the effect of the new order is to reduce the service of some men to a single year.

The war department said the action was taken "in consideration of budgetary limitations," and were aimed also at increasing efficiency. Dates for the release of many officers similarly were advanced earlier this week by six months or more.

Officials said they could not estimate how many enlisted men will be affected but said the number would be "substantial."

Sees No Need For Special Session Of Congress-Hopes Supplies Improve

By William R. Spear

WASHINGTON, Sept. 26—(AP)—President Truman, taking a stand in disagreement with some of his own party leaders, declared emphatically today price ceilings on meat should not be raised or scrapped.

With the meat shortage producing grave new complications, the President issued a statement saying:

1. The shortage is not due to price control but to an "extraordinarily large slaughter" in July and August when price controls were temporarily off.

2. There will be a "greater quantity and better quality of meat in the near future."

3. Present livestock ceilings are "fair and equitable."

In addition to this statement, issued at his news conference, the President told reporters he saw no need for special session of congress to remedy the situation. He also expressed firm hope that any growers withholding cattle and hogs will now release them for market.

Suspension Is Favored

Even as the President was taking his stand, Mayor Kelly of Chicago told reporters he favored a 60-day suspension of meat price controls. House Democratic Leader McCormack of Massachusetts urged such a suspension yesterday.

In addition, the party's executive committee adopted a resolution today directing Chairman Robert E. Hannegan to "discuss with the Decontrol Board and any other proper authorities ways and means of increasing the meat supply available to the American people."

A reporter read the Democratic resolution to Mr. Truman, interpretting it to mean that its purpose was to press for removal of meat controls. Mr. Truman insisted that would not help the situation.

Then he was asked whether he disagrees with Hannegan on the question. He replied that the facts were in his statement and if Hannegan differs with them, then of course they do not agree. Hannegan as postmaster general is a member of the cabinet.

The President's statement rejecting any alteration of price controls put him definitely in opposition to McCormack's suspension plea. Incidentally, Mr. Truman said that McCormack had denied to a White House secretary that he had said he discussed the matter with the President, as he was quoted in Boston yesterday.

In Boston tonight McCormack said: "The reporter who quoted me as saying I had discussed the meat situation with the President simply misunderstood me. It was an honest mistake. I probably said I discussed the situation before I left Washington with one cabinet member."

Agree On One Point

On one point, the chief executive and the Democratic policymakers appeared in agreement: That congressional handling of price control legislation largely contributed to the meat situation. The party resolution hit at "the blind opposition of Republican members of congress to adequate control measures." Mr. Truman, without mentioning the GOP, declared that if congress had passed the OPA bill in early spring, "as I had urged, x x x many of these difficulties would have been avoided."

The uncertainty of that time, leading to the period in July and August when controls were off, Mr. Truman contended, led to an "extra-ordinarily large slaughter" then. And that in turn, added, is "in large part" the cause of the "shortage" now.

He used the word "shortage" rather than "famine," declaring that "dire predictions of a meat famine are without basis."

Since meat was abundant in midsummer when controls were in abeyance, he remarked, "it is natural, therefore, for people to blame the shortage on price control. This line of reasoning is wholly wrong."

The President's statement reported prospects "for temporary relief in the next few months" although "there may be periods in various parts of the country when meat is scarce." In additional comment Mr. Truman expressed stronger assurances that supplies will improve and urged that people be patient.

There was but one light note. In reading his statement, Mr. Truman interpolated that on the meat situation he knows what he is talking about. Reporters, with the mixup over Henry A. Wal-

Fetters Resigns As Sanitary Officer, Changes in Personnel

Raymond Fetters, who for more than 10 years has been sanitary and license officer of the city of Sedalia, has tendered his resignation to Mayor Julian H. Bagby to become effective as of September 30. It is the hope of the city officials the new trucks, with specially built bodies for the garbage work will be in Sedalia by the middle of October and not later than the first of November. The manufacturer of the bodies has practically assured the city the latest date would be November 1.

Clark, who prior to the change was on the police department, began his training program the first of the week. He is expected to take over the new duties officially October 1.

Fetters' resignation will be presented to the city council for action on Monday, October 7.

County Judges Interested in Two Topics of Importance

JEFFERSON CITY, Sept. 26—(AP)—Two topics of vital importance to county courts shared interest of the Missouri County Judges Association meeting here today.

Several scheduled speakers were unable to attend and Association President O. L. Carrothers of Carthage threw the meeting into an open discussion.

The recently enacted "milk route" bill and special road district troubles immediately took the center of the stage.

There was some difference of opinion as to whether the act for rural road improvement provides for up to $750 a mile in state aid or whether the state money and the matching county funds can total only $750. Pending an attorney general's opinion, Judge Carrothers said, he believed the lawmakers intended that the state provide up to $750 a mile in matching money.

The judges showed interest in a new law providing the county court may retain 20 per cent of the first special road district levy, which cannot exceed 35 cents on the $100 valuation. Thereafter, it was explained, the district could levy up to 35 cents additional and get all the revenue.

Later today M. E. Morris, director of the new state revenue department, G. H. Bates, collector, and Forrest Smith, state auditor, were scheduled speakers. Sen. Frank P. Briggs was to address the group.

Both automobiles were demolished.

Brothers Aid Marine Recruiting

An unusual aspect of the United States Marine recruiting service took place in Fresno, Calif., on August 26 when thirty-nine young men from that vicinity were sworn into the U. S. Marine corps by Captain Eugene A. Siegel, assistant officer in charge of U. S. Marine recruiting, District of San Francisco.

Before leaving San Francisco for Fresno, where all the official documents for the recruits were to be prepared Captain Siegel required a naval medical officer to give the recruits their physical examination. A request was made for a naval medical examiner and Lieut. P. V. Siegel (MC) U S. Navy, brother of Captain Siegel was assigned the task. His assignment to examine the recruits was a "once in a million" chance since it brought together two brothers on one important service job of Marine recruiting. Captain Siegel supervised the interviewing, preparing of the enlistment contracts and administering the oath to the San Joaquin Valley Platoon and Lieutenant Siegel gave the physical examination.

Both in California

Lieutenant Siegel was then stationed at the U. S. Naval Officers' Separation Center in San Francisco and Captain Siegel is assistant officer in charge of San Francisco Marine recruiting district. Lieutenant Siegel is now stationed in Pensacola, Fla., where he is undergoing flight training for assignment as an aviation surgeon. Captain Siegel will be detached from the recruiting office in San Francisco on October 1st and after a short leave will beport to the First amphibian tractor battalion for overseas duty.

Lieutenant Siegel served thirteen (13) months overseas on Saipan Island with the U. S. military government hospital. His brother, Captain Siegel, served thirty-five (35) months overseas with the Second amphibian tractor battalion and participated in the assault on Tarawa, Gilbert Islands, Saipan and Tinian, Marianas Islands and Theya, Aguni and Okinawa in the Ruyukus Islands. He was awarded the Silver Star for conspicuous gallantry at Tarawa and the Bronze Star for heroic achievement at Saipan.

Both Captain and Lieutenant Siegel are well known in this vicinity and both are graduates from the University of Missouri. They are the sons of Mr. Carl C. Siegel, well known farmer merchant of Florence, Mo.

Campaign For Teen-Town September 23

Three years ago in November teen agers in Sedalia requested a place for recreation, where they could spend their free time. Through the cooperation of the P. T. A., other individuals and even business firms, they opened the "Teen Town" on Second street between Ohio and Lamine avenues. Donations were generously given, and the teen agers themselves worked to continue the support of the club. Today an average of more than five hundred teen agers enjoy the facilities of Teen Town weekly. The rules and regulations of the club were drawn up by the students, and approved by the adult board of directors. A paid supervisor, Mrs. Ollie Streit, is at hand at all times when the club is open. Recently the furniture from the local U. S. O. was purchased for the club.

The teen agers are still at work to keep their club open. Each year a drive is sponsored to obtain funds for the coming year. The drive this year will open on Monday, September 23rd. Each year the donations have decreased, while prices have gone up. The cost of keeping Teen Town open is $200 per month, plus allowances for needed equipment, necessary decorations, and, from time to time, building repairs. However, if 3,000 persons in Sedalia would mail $1 each year to the Teen Town treasurer, it would not even be necessary to conduct a drive, and the membership dues could be reduced to a minimum. During the drive this year, volunteers will call on the citizens of Sedalia to ask for their contributions. Needless to say, any amount you choose to give will be appreciated. More volunteers are needed for this job.

The adult solicitors will be headed by Mrs. Leo Eickhoff, chairman, and the student committee by Joe Potts. For any information desired contact Mrs. Eickhoff, 3709, or Mr. Brougher, 292.

Veterans Now Training Must Report Income

August, September And October Must be Filed by Nov. 12

Veterans taking on-th-job training or attending school under the G. I. Bill will now be required to report their income to the Veterans Administration every four months, it was announced today by Mr. Don Campbell, contact representative of the Veterans Administration office here. The new requirement is based on recent Congressional action limiting the monthly income of G. I. trainees to$175 if single or $200 if they have dependents.

Veterans in the affected category are being notified that they must report their August, September and October earnings to VA by November 5. If the report has not been received by November 12, the veterans will be notified that their subsistence payments will stop until the information is supplied.

Require Report

The income report is required of students, VA pointed out, because many of them may now be able to accept outside work to boost their incomes, without exceeding the legal limit. The reports from on-the-job trainees will enable VA to adjust the trainee's subsistence checks so that they do not exceed the maximum amount permitted.

Necessary adjustments in subsistence, in the case of veterans already in school, will be made on the basis of these reports. Veterans who enroll or re-enroll this fall will receive from their school a form on which to report their expected earnings from outside employment. VA will base the veteran's subsistence allowance on the information supplied on this form.

Recheck Earnings

Every semester the veteran's earnings will be checked again, to determine whether any further adjustment is necessary. Before this re-check is required, VA will send each veteran a form on which to report the amount he actually has earned since the last report, and what he expects to earn during the ensuing period.

A similar procedure is to be followed for veterans who enter or re-enter on-the-job training from now on. They will receive a form on which to report their expected earnings, with a certification from their employer. Every four months they will receive another form, on which they will indicate what they have actually made during the preceding interval and what they expect to make during the next period. An necessary adjustments in subsistence allowances will be made on the basis of these reports.

President Not Call For The Scrapping Of Ceilings On Meat

lace's speech in mind, greeted this with a gale of laughter. Mr. Truman himself mustered a faint smile.

The Presidential statement followed a fresh batch of demands from congressmen and others urging federal action.

Charge Of "Collusion"

Rep. Sabath (D-Ill) charged "collusion" among the packers to hold off on purchases in a campaign for price decontrol and telegraphed Attorney General Clark demanding an investigation.

Senator Mead (D-NY) released a telegram to Secretary of Agriculture Anderson saying that "if a conspiracy among the big packers exists to keep meat off the market x x x federal authorities should exert all their power and influence to expose the conspirators." Mead declared that "a national emergency . at hand" and urged a council of various government agencies "to take immediate action."

Mr. Truman, commenting on Sabath's demand, noted that the congressman lives in the meat center of Chicago. But he said that if there is such a conspiracy as Sabath charged, he knows nothing about it and that he does not think it is a fact.

The proposal of House Democratic Leader McCormack of Massachusetts for a 60-day suspension of meat price controls by voluntary action of the OPA drew a rejection from Price Administrator Paul Porter. He told a news conference in Santa Fe, N. M., that it would merely bring on another feast and famine.

"Responsible livestock people and packers have told me privately," Porter said, that a temporary suspension would strike a pretty severe blow" at the industry.

Vote To Exclude Franco Spain

LAKE SUCCESS, N. Y., Sept. 26—(AP)—The United Nations economic and social council voted 11 to 1 tonight to exclude Franco Spain from participation in the new international control commission for narcotic drugs.

Great Britain was the only member of the Council voting against a Soviet proposal to exclude Spain.

Slaughter For Dropping Controls

WASHINGTON, Sept. 26—(AP)—Roger C. Slaughter (D-Mo) said today the "necessity for immediate removal of meat controls is too apparent to be open to argument."

"These unrealistic controls drove all the meat into the black market last spring while during the short period of decontrol it became plentiful," he added.

He charged that it was "silly and typical of the administrative practices of the Office of Price Administration to claim that prices are being held down with meat shelves bare."

Plan To Back Universal Training

WASHINGTON, Sept. 26—(AP)—The war department has decided, it was reported tonight, to back a plan for universal military training by which youths could perform part of their compulsory service in scientific laboratories, the National Guard or organized reserves.

Informed officials said privately that Secretary of War Patterson will ask support of the revised proposal at the American Legion's national convention next week at San Francisco.

Record Price

ST. JOSEPH, Mo., Sept. 26—(AP)—A new record was set today at the Interstate Baby Beef and Pig club show when the grand champion barrow, owned by Billy Loveland of Buchanan county, was sold at 80 cents a pound. The buyer was a St. Joseph serum company.

The previous high price paid in the 26-year-old sale was 76 cents pound.

Welcomes Investigation

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 26—(AP)—Housing Expediter Wilson Wyatt said today he would welcome an inquiry into the administration's home building program by the Senate War Investigating committee.

Senator Ferguson (R-Mich) recommended in Washington that the committee make such an inquiry and termed the administration's housing program "a fraud upon the American people."

Shot Is Taken At Charles Bickford

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 26—(AP)—Charles Bickford, a screen villian, was shot at today after two unidentified men flagged him down as he was enroute in his auto to his home in nearby Playa Del Rey, he reported to police.

Bickford said one of the men ordered him to get out of the machine but that he elbowed him and sped away. The other man fired a shot that struck the rear window and ricochted, the actor said.

Seek Airmen in Slaveholding Areas

CHENGTU, China, Sept. 26—(AP)—A U. S. Army search team plunged deeper into China's wild and mountainous far west today seeking long-lost American airmen feared captives of the fierce slaveholding Lolos.

On the second day of their mission into the land of cloud-capped mountains. Half-savage, Mongolian-featured warriors, and pandas, the soldiers were believed to be from five to 11 days march from their goal.

That goal is the valley of the Chinkiang, which carves its course from headwaters in the world's highest mountains in Tibet.

Missionaries have reported at least eight enslaved whites were seen grinding corn or tending flocks in that region, where few white men save the missionaries have ever ventured.

Set Up Headquarters

Lt. Col. Herbert W. Wurtzler and his detachment expected to set up headquarters at a remote Catholic mission and try to learn there if the white captives are U. S. airmen downe two and more years ago on the perilous flight "over the hump," from India to China.

His party flew down to Sichang, about 300 miles southwest of Chengtu. The mission is an estimated four days march west of Sichang. The region where the white men were seen is from two to eight days march farther westward.

Wurtzler hoped to talk with those who saw the white men. Then he will try to locate the captives through friendly Lolo chieftains.

Dr. David Crockett Graham of West China university, who entered the Lolo country 20 years ago, said here that the Lolos probably would demand blankets and salt for ransom because their economy was based on the practice of slavery.

Communications Primitive

Wurtzler was accompanied by a French priest, who knows the fringes of Lololand. So primitive are communications that no developments were expected to be reported here inside of two weeks.

Reports reaching here said that an intertribal war was in progress somewhere ahead of Wurtzler's party, and this might further delay negotiations for the release of any airmen found.

(In Buffalo, N. Y., James M. Pellegrine told an interviewer he had flown into the country last September as a technical engineer to repair a forced-down Chinese plane and had been attacked by Lolos who had small arms "stolen from captured, and usually murdered airmen.")

Blind Since Birth; Sees A Little

CHICAGO, Sept. 26—(AP)—A dream came true today for a 14-year-old Artesian, S. D., farm girl.

The child, Bette Goudy, has been blind since birth. Today she was able to see—only a little, but it was still seeing.

Bette's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Edmund Goudy, brought the girl here two weeks ago for an operation. A cornea from a stillborn baby was transplanted to her right eyeball by Dr. Richard Perritt.

Bette had waited three years, until Dr. Perritt returned from military service, for the operation.

Today the bandages were removed and Bette was able to receive hand movements, fingers and various colored flowers. She said everything seemed "magnified" in comparison with what she had imagined.

A hospital spokesman said the operation was considered completely successful and that Bette would see more and better as time went on.

More Meat for Hospitals Soon, Porter States

SANTA FE, N. M., Sept. 26—(AP)—Paul Porter, OPA director, said today that an order is being prepared in Washington to make more meat available to hospitals and similar institutions throughout the country.

Porter, here to attend a regional conference of OPA officials, said packers would be directed to set aside the same amount of meat for hospitals that they delivered during the base period in 1944.

He declined to elaborate on the plan, saying details would be announced in Washington, perhaps today.

Time Needed To Get Houses

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 26—(AP)—The government is using imagination and ingenuity in attacking the housing emergency, but it will take time for the housing supply to catch up with the demand, Wilson W. Wyatt, national housing expediter, told the annual conference of the National Urban League in an address today.

"It will take time to get all-out housing production, just as it took time to get all-out war production" the speaker said. "And to give you an idea of how rapidly housing demand is increasing, you have only to note that the current average rate of marriages is almost 100,000 a month.

"For more than a decade the housing supply has been falling behind the need. We haven't built enough houses for years. Add to that the demobilization of 13 million men in a year's time. We demobilized more men in one month than the largest number of houses this nation has ever built in one year."

Farm Program Unchanged

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 26—(AP)—The Veterans Administration rescued today a decision which would have cut subsistence allowances for 12,000 veterans engaged in on-the-farm training in Arkansas, Oklahoma, Missouri and Kansas, the agency's St. Louis branch office announced.

C. B. Sherry, VA director of vocational rehabilitation and education for the four states, said a telegram from the VA's central office in Washington, had advised that "pending consideration" by the next congress, operation of the farm training program would be unchanged with the following exceptions.

Farm veterans, like other veterans, can not receive subsistence which would bring their earnings to more than $200 per month for a veteran with dependents or $175 per month for a veteran without dependents.

Approval to MPSC Request

JEFFERSON CITY, Sept 26—(AP)—The Missouri Public Service commission approved today the financing plans submitted by two Missouri utilities, one to pay for improvements in facilities of the Missouri Public Service Corporation of Warrensburg and the other to re-finance the United Telephone company of Kansas City.

The Warrensburg corporation, supplying electrical power and gas to western Missouri consumers, received permission to issue $750,000 worth of first mortgage, series B bonds, carrying 2⅞ percent interest and maturing in 1976.

The utility would use the money to pay part of the cost of $401,837 in additions and improvements already completed and some $891,695 in improvements expected to be completed by the end of 1947.

Unbondable portions of the work will be financed out of the corporation's treasury.

The United Telephone company, having 57 telephone exchanges in Missouri, would issue $1,000,000 in series A first mortgage bonds, carrying 2⅞ percent interest and maturing in 1971, under approval of its plan.

Charge Torture Of Negro 'Vet'

WASHINGTON, Sept. 26—(AP)—The justice department today announced the filing of a criminal information against Police Chief Lynwood Lanier Shull of Batesburg, S. C., alleging that he beat and tortured a Negro war veteran last Feb. 12.

The announcement identified the Negro as Isaac Woodard, Jr., of the Bronx, N. Y., and said that woodard "is permanently blind as a result of the alleged beating."

The information, said the department, was filed in federal district court at Columbia, S. C. by U. S. Attorney Claude M. Sapp, and charged that Shull had "beaten and tortured" Woodard in violation of the federal civil rights statute. That statute, the announcement said, prohibits police and other public officials from depriving a persor of rights "secured by the constitution and the laws of the United States."

Of the February incident, the department said:

"The mistreatment is said to have occurred after Shull had arrested Woodard in the South Carolina town for allegedly creating a disturbance on a bus on which (Woodard) was returning home after his discharge from the army earlier that day."

Dr. Leslie H. Wright, chief medical officer at the Wood, Wis., facility, said that Lobner entered the hospital Tuesday, bringing with him X-ray plates showing the utensil lying diagonally across his abdomen with the tines pointing upward.

Dr. Wright said an operation was planned and Lobner added, "If it turns out to be a navy fork, I won't sent it back, but if it's mother's and I ate it when I was a kid, she can return it to the set."

Plan Welcome For Their King

By L. S. Chakales

ATHENS, Sept. 26—(AP)—The Greek government completed today its plans for welcoming King George II back to his throne despite fierce border fighting and civil strife in northern Greece which Premier Constantin Tsaldaris says has reached the magnitude of war.

Athens will close down completely Saturday morning for the king's reception and police authorities announced that all permits for carrying arms had been suspended.

Police said persons lining the route of the parade marking the monarch's return to Greece after five years of exile would not be permitted to circulate and that any person was liable to search.

All persons were forbidden to watch the parade from rooftops or terraces for a depth of about 100 yards from the route of march, which will begin at Faleron Bay and continue to the Greek cathedral in the heart of Athens.

The king was to arrive at an airport on the Peloponnesus and then board a destroyer for the journey to Piraeus, the port of Athens.

'Dream' Roads Drive Starts

WASHINGTON, Sept. 26—(AP)—A nationwide campaign for building without delay a 40,000-mile system of "dream" highways authorized by congress in 1944 was launched today at the inaugural session of the National Highway Transportation congress.

The project calls for developing in 20 years a vast network of super highways stretching from coast to coast and from border to border. It is expected to involve expenditure of more than $12,000,000,000, which has yet to be provided.

"Destination of the routes is now virtually complete," said William A. Stinchcomb of Cleveland, chairman of the American Automobile Association's highway and lagislative committee.

Stinchcomb said the network, linking the major cities and the agriculture, industrial and recreational resources of the nation, was designed to carry 20 percent of the highway transportation traffic load and would benefit two-thirds of the nation's motor vehicle users.

Found Guilty, Must Die

LONDON, Sept. 26—(AP)—Neville George Clevely Heath, 29, was convicted today of the murder of Mrs. Margaret Gardner, 33-year-old film extra and was sentenced to die.

The verdict was returned after an hour's deliberation by a jury of 10 men and two women.

Counsel for the handsome flier had pleaded that he be found "guilty but insane" in the sadistic slaying.

Heath, a former Royal Air Force pilot, also was charged with the murder of Miss Doreen Marshall, exWren whose horribly mutilated body was found near a south coast resort within two weeks of the Gardner slaying. The verdict made a second trial unnecessary.

Asked after announcement of the verdict whether he had anything to say, Heath replied:

"Nothing."

Two prison doctors testified today against the defense contention that Heath was morally insane. Both said the 29-year-old flier was not insane, but described him as a psychopathic personality.

Dreamboat Hop Friday

HONOLULU, Sept. 26—(AP)—Col. C. S. Irvine, commander of the army's distance record seeking B-29, "Pacausan Dreamboat," today tentatively set 5:30 a. m. tomorrow, Honolulu time (11 a. m. CST) for the start of his top-of-the-world hop to Cairo, Egypt.

Irvine said, after checking the early weather report, that the 10,000-mile flight across the Arctic regions would begin as indicated, "weather permitting."

A Real Problem

ST. JOSEPH, Mo., Sept. 26—(AP)—How to evict a tenant 7½ months arrears in rent is the problem of the MacDonald-Duggar-Duncan American Legion post.

The tenant is the regional OPA Rent Control Office.

Post Commander Arch Pickrell, naming a committee to see what could be done, said the government had paid no rent since the post took over the downtown building last February. The amount due, Pickrell said, is $1,500.

NEW YORK, Sept. 26—(AP)—The Bronx zoo's tapir decided yesterday that after three years of confinement it was time he was on the outside looking in.

Finding the two doors leading from his cage unlocked, the 500-pound animal pushed them open with his long nose and for a half hour ambled in the sunlight, getting acquainted with the Bronx:

Keepers put an abrupt end to his stroll, however, using lassoes to corral him.

Look Out Below

KANSAS CITY, Sept. 26—(AP)—Someone pitched a beer bottle from a hotel window, and bystander Phillip J. Coughlan, 60, walked into the street to pick up the fragments and prevent damage to automobile tires.

As he was bending over, a second bottle glanced off his head, sending him to a hospital for seven stitches to close the laceration.

Police arrested two men on the fifteenth floor of the hotel. They said they were here for a soft drink conventioin.

Cardinals In Day's Rest For Final Series

Dyer To Rely On Pitchers After Batting Slump

By JACK HAND

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 26—(AP)—Eddie Dyer gave his St. Louis Cardinals a One-day vacation today, hoping a rest would sharpen their jaded batting eyes for the decisive final series with the Chicago Cubs.

After booting another chance to practically shut the pennant door on Brooklyn by bowing to Cincinnati's Bucky Walters, 6-0, last night, the league-leading Red Birds had only themselves to blame.

While they sneaked an occasional listen to the Dodger-Phillies score, most of the Red Birds were more concerned with the mystery of what happened to the Cardinal punch.

Since leaving Boston under full steam of a 13-hit bombardment, the Cards suddenly have stopped hitting. Over their last five-game stretch, including three in Chicago and two at home with the Reds, the erstwhile league hitting kings have compiled a measly average of .189, collecting only 30 hits and seven runs over a 46-inning stretch.

Worst offender is Stan Musial, the uncrowned major league batting champ, for so much had been expected of him. Since his big 5 for 5 day in Boston a week ago, Stan had had only three hits in 19 trips. His only safe blow in his last 12 at bat was the score-tying single that ruined Johnny Vandermeer's shutout bid Tuesday.

But clouting Stan isn't the only one. Enos Slaughter had gone up 20 times for four hits, Marty Marion has only two safeties in his last 15 whacks, Terry Moore has gone 20 for 2 and Red Schoendienst 20 for 3. Even the mighty man, Erv (four sack) Dusak, has only his dramatic 10th inning homer and a single to show for his last eight attempts.

Hopes On Pitchers

With the batters slumping, Manager Dyer has to pin his hopes on the pitching staff which has been coming through nicely in the final weeks despite the terrific strain. Seven men have been carrying the entire burden, the four regular starters backed up by Al Brazle, Ted Wilks and Ken Burkhart in the bullpen. Nobody else ever gets a chance to warm up.

Howie Pollett, the No. 1 man of the Cards and probable world series opener if the club gets that far, will work tomorrow against the Cubs. The clever southpaw has been showing signs of wear in his last two outings, being knocked out of the box by Chicago at Wrigley Field Sunday when he took a 7-2 beating. His last top flight job was a five-hit win over Brooklyn, Sept. 12.

"I'll open with Pollett, follow with the cat (Harry Brecheen) and pitch the whole staff Sunday if I need to," Dyer said. "Red" Munger probably will be my Sunday starter but who knows what might happen by that time. When a club like the Phillies with Ennis, Seminick and Hemsley out of the lineup by that time, can score five runs in the ninth to beat Brooklyn, anything can happen."

Charley Grimm, genuinely incensed by veiled reports that his Cubs were not bearing down against the Cards as hard as they were against the Dodgers, has gone to great trouble to pull some vets off the sick list to present his strongest lineup.

Stan Hack, who had been out of action for six weeks with a hand fracture, played the series in Chicago and was ready for the last three games as was Phil Cavarretta, believed to be out for the season when he was injured trying for a diving catch in Brooklyn.

Johnny Schmitz, one of the better young lefthanders in the game, was Grimm's choice for the opener. He had beaten the Cards three times and lost to them twice. Hank Borrowy, who halted St. Louis with six hits in his last out, and Hank Wyse, a 1-0 loser to Brecheen Monday, were due to pitch the other games.
